April 26, 2023 -
Oklahoma City, OK - Oklahoma City Tree Service Experts, a leading provider of tree care services in Oklahoma City, announces its latest initiative to foster creativity and environmental stewardship in the local community: engaging art projects using recycled wood. This innovative program invites residents and artists to repurpose wood from tree removals and pruning jobs into stunning works of art, furniture, and functional items.

Lauryn Daniella, CEO of Oklahoma City Tree Service Experts, speaks to the motivation behind the program: "As a tree care company, we're always looking for ways to reduce waste and promote sustainability. By connecting with local artists and community members, we can transform leftover wood into beautiful, functional pieces that reflect the spirit of Oklahoma City."

The community art projects facilitated by Oklahoma City Tree Service Experts range from small-scale endeavors, such as creating birdhouses and sculptures, to larger installations, like park benches and playground equipment. In addition, the company works closely with local artists, schools, and nonprofit organizations to coordinate workshops, demonstrations, and collaborative projects that bring the community together.

Daniella elaborates on the program's benefits: "Our recycled wood art projects not only help the environment by reducing waste but also create opportunities for people of all ages to learn new skills, express their creativity, and connect with nature."

The company's commitment to sustainability extends beyond the art projects, as they continually seek ways to minimize their environmental footprint. In addition to recycling wood, Oklahoma City Tree Service Experts also practices responsible tree care, emphasizing proactive maintenance and preservation whenever possible.

"Every time we remove a tree, we're mindful of the impact on the environment and the local ecosystem," says Daniella. "Our recycled wood art program is just one way we're striving to create a more sustainable future for Oklahoma City and beyond."

As part of the initiative, Oklahoma City Tree Service Experts plans to host a series of events throughout the year, including workshops, exhibitions, and community cleanups. These events aim to raise awareness of the importance of sustainability, promote the work of local artists, and encourage residents to get involved in the creative process.

"We're excited to see how our community will come together through these art projects," says Lauryn Daniella. "It's an opportunity for everyone to positively impact the environment while celebrating the beauty and versatility of trees."
