April 27, 2023 -
Los Angeles, CA ? Los Angeles Tree Professionals, a leading tree service company in the area, is excited to announce their latest initiative, "Branching into Wellness." The company's new forest bathing retreats are designed to provide participants with stress relief, relaxation, and reconnection with nature. CEO Dennis Do emphasizes the importance of offering these unique experiences to enhance the community's well-being.

"Forest bathing, or shinrin-yoku, is a practice that originated in Japan, where individuals immerse themselves in the forest atmosphere to reduce stress and enhance their overall well-being," explains Dennis. "We're thrilled to bring this innovative and rejuvenating experience to Los Angeles, offering our clients and the community a chance to reconnect with nature while reaping the therapeutic benefits."

Los Angeles Tree Professionals' forest bathing retreats will be led by experienced guides who will take participants on a leisurely walk through carefully selected forest settings in the Los Angeles area. The retreats will focus on mindful practices, including deep breathing, meditation, and gentle movements, to promote relaxation and a greater appreciation for nature.

CEO Dennis Do adds, "As a tree service company, we understand the value of preserving our natural environment. Through these forest bathing retreats, we aim to help people rediscover the joy and tranquility trees can bring into our lives."

Studies have shown that spending time in nature, especially in a forest setting, can have numerous health benefits, such as reducing blood pressure, boosting the immune system, and increasing overall happiness.

By offering these forest bathing retreats, Los Angeles Tree Professionals promotes wellness and a deeper connection with the natural world.

"In today's fast-paced society, we often neglect our well-being and the importance of spending time in nature," says Dennis. "These retreats provide a much-needed opportunity to slow down and immerse ourselves in the beauty and serenity of the forest. We hope participants feel refreshed, inspired, and more connected to the environment."

The "Branching into Wellness" forest bathing retreats will be available for booking starting next month. Los Angeles Tree Professionals is committed to ensuring the safety and well-being of all participants by adhering to strict COVID-19 guidelines and maintaining a limited group size for each retreat.

"Branching into Wellness is more than just a stress-relief experience. It's an opportunity to foster a deeper connection with the environment and embrace the healing power of trees," concludes CEO Dennis Do. "We look forward to sharing this transformative experience with the Los Angeles community."
