

Nurse Recruiter Firm Proactive Healthcare Recruiters Acquired by Proactive Healthcare Staffing

May 11, 2023

Virginia Beach, Virginia - May 11, 2023 -
Proactive Healthcare Recruiters, a company based in Virginia Beach, VA, that is focused on the recruitment needs of healthcare facilities, has announced their recent acquisition by Proactive Healthcare Staffing, which has now taken ownership of the website proactivehealthcarerecruiters.com. The company looks for various staff for healthcare companies and facilities, including executives. These include: registered nurses and other kinds of nurses; healthcare executives, including C-level talent, physical therapists, marketing executives, sales executives, healthcare IT professionals, information management professionals, occupational therapists, speech therapists, and more.

A spokesperson for Proactive Healthcare Recruiters says, ?One of the advantages of using Proactive Healthcare Recruiters is that we have the resources, expertise, and networks to help you find the best candidates. In addition, our ability to apply marketing techniques to get superb job visibility in the market and attract top talent gives you an unfair advantage in this competitive employment environment. We work with our clients and our candidates to ensure that the candidate we offer is a good fit for the company culture. We also seek out the best possible match in skill sets so that the hard skills you need are already in place. And we match all skills of the candidate to ensure that client and candidate are fully satisfied. Contact us whenever you need the best professionals for your staff.?

Proactive Healthcare Recruiters always strives to offer comprehensive services whenever they find the appropriate staff for an employer. They will carefully ensure that the candidate they find has all of the skills that match the specific requirements of the employer. This will make sure that both the candidate and the requesting employer will be completely satisfied with the pairing and will be able to work well together.

The spokesperson says, ?If there is not enough qualified staff within your state, a recruiter will also look further afield, in states where the standard of qualification is recognized by the professional bodies in your state. The cost for you, or someone in your organization, to travel from one state to another to locate the right staff can be incredibly expensive and take time. It might even feel a little like trying to find a needle in a haystack. Using an agency can help you save both time and money. You never know, they may have the right person for the position on their books straight away. If not, they can use their contacts, and their marketing, on behalf of you and their other clients. Once they?ve selected people who pass the grade they can then select the candidates they will screen and present to you, should they have the necessary skills.?

Healthcare facilities need not waste their time carrying out first interviews with applicants. Proactive Healthcare Recruiters can take care of this and this will not just benefit the facility. The nurse or other healthcare professional will not have to waste more time attending interviews, possibly even traveling hundreds of miles, only to find they were not chosen for the second interview. It the recruiting agency conducts the first interview, many of the candidates that have less chances of getting qualified, can be screened, providing the requesting facility of a better list of candidates.

Launched in 2012, Proactive Healthcare Recruiters is focused on assisting health care facilities and recruitment managers find the appropriate staff for their teams to boost their productivity and establish a group of winning team players. They will not simply post on job boards and then wait for potential candidates to submit their application. Instead, their recruiters will map out the market for their clients, carefully screen the various applicants, and check references, to find for the most appropriate match for the client?s team before submitting them. Proactive Healthcare Recruiters employs advanced advertising, matching technology, and search techniques for finding for the best match for the client?s required professional.
