Kellen Bachman explains, ?The primary point of any personal injury claim is to win money for your injuries and other damages. That?s why most Chicago injury victims are first and foremost concerned with how much they stand to receive if their claim is successful. Your attorney won?t be able to give you an accurate estimate until they have assessed all the evidence and details of your case. But we can give you an idea of all the damages for which you could be repaid.?

Examples of damages that can be paid include: medical bills, property damage, lost income, reduced quality of life, renovations to the home to accommodate the victim?s injuries, scarring or disfigurement, emotional trauma, loss of companionship, and wrongful death.

These include: $2 million award for jogger struck by SUV driven by a teenager; $1.8 million for a man injured in an accident with a teen driver; $1.25 million awarded to a victim of a distracted driver; $700,000 award to an Indiana woman injured in a rear-end truck crash; $250,000 maximum policy limit obtained for a woman struck by a car.
