Travelers of all stripes will find Things To Do in Hilton Head, SC, according to the free tourist magazine. This magazine says there is a wide variety of things to do on the island.

There are almost 60 miles of bike trails on Hilton Head, recently featured in the magazine. The article went on to gush about the island's stunning beaches, which it said were ideal for water sports and picnics due to their proximity to clear waters. Several hotels, restaurants, and shops have also opened up in Hilton Head to accommodate the growing number of visitors. The area's long list of golf courses is another major draw for visitors to Hilton Head.

As reported by the magazine, some of the most enjoyable things to do in Hilton Head include getting active. All sporting events and trips to Harbour Town Marina are included. Parasailing, paddleboarding, jet skiing, banana boat rides, kayaking, sailing, tubing, and water skiing are just some of the activities available to visitors.

ZipLine Hilton Head, where visitors may soar over ancient pines and gnarled live oaks, was also included in the Best Hilton Head Visitors' Magazine list. In this way, visitors may get a birds-eye perspective of the water, the surrounding marshes, and the boats sitting idle. However, as the visitor will be suspended from a height of 75 feet, this experience is not for the faint of heart.

In addition to the dolphins and sharks, visitors to Hilton Head may also observe turtles and birds hiding in the mangroves. Daufuskie Island, accessible from Hilton Head, is another popular destination for vacationers on the island. The island has fantastic shopping destinations and world-class golfing, art museums, and dining. These activities are all recommended by 101 Things To Do magazine.

The Folly Field Beach Park is another Hilton Head attraction visitors shouldn't miss. It's great for families with little kids to visit this beach because the shallow water has a level bottom.
