Modern residential properties can be the breeding ground for hundreds of types of molds that can cause a wide range of health issues, especially for those with asthma, seasonal allergies, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD), or weakened immune systems. Black mold or Stachybotrys Chartum, one of the most toxic strands of mold known to man, is particularly harmful as it produces mycotoxins that have severe long-term health effects.

?There are several reasons that might trigger the growth of mold, mildew, and wood rot in your home,? says the spokesperson for Charlotte Crawlspace Solutions. ?It all begins with a moisture source that can either be inside the house like faulty plumbing or due to the high humidity levels outside. Soon, you may notice an earthy or musty smell spreading throughout the house caused by the mold spores that have filled the crawlspace environment and are now slowly permeating throughout the rest of the property.?

If the problem is left unchecked, the fungi may root deeper into the moist wood and weaken and destroy the joists, support beams, and subfloor panels. Some of the common complaints that homeowners have from crawlspaces facing a mold issue include sagging, unlevel, and buckled floors, and cracked interior walls. Another noticeable issue is the sudden rise in energy bills as the home?s insulation capabilities decrease and indoor humidity increases.

The spokesperson then details Charlotte Crawlspace Solutions? steps for mold cleanup by saying, ?Mold in organic contamination can be both visible and invisible to the naked eye. So, our system uses Oxy Power that cleans beyond the soil load and achieves total source removal. We begin by identifying all the areas of the crawlspace where the mold has to be removed and the wood may have decayed to a state that is beyond salvageable. When the wood to be replaced is removed, we apply OxyPrep to the affected wooden surfaces and let it sit for several minutes. Next, we apply OxyPar and allow it to foam to bring the residual organics to the surface. Finally, the wooden surface is wiped off and repairs are undertaken. As a NORMI Certified Mold Remediator, with Charlotte Crawlspace Solutions, you can rest assured that you are getting the best people for the job.?

One Google review says, ?Mike and Shelby at Charlotte Crawl Space Solutions were amazing to work with! They made the very stressful process of remediating mold from our home and coming up with a plan so much easier. The work was completed quickly, and professionally and exceeded expectations. They are a local business that makes a plan for your basement and crawlspace instead of just encapsulating the crawl space and charging $$$. They were priced reasonably as well! :) Thank you!?

Another review of the company?s mold remediation services highlighted on its website says, ?We had a problem with rotting floor rafters due to a mold problem in our crawl space. After several phone calls with no answer, we finally reached Michael. He asked all the right questions and was at our door the next morning to inspect our crawlspace. Michael gave us a very detailed report on our problem and the extent of the wood rot and mold problem. We decided to go with him and are very glad we did. He is very meticulous and did a great job at a fair price. Highly recommended.?
