Event Rental Systems, a provider of bounce house rental software solutions for party rental enterprises, offers web-based software packages designed to help bounce house rental businesses operate with minimal manual intervention. The software aims to enhance sales while streamlining and digitizing all party rental business tasks.

For business owners, the ERS bounce house software offers an easily editable website that accepts orders 24/7, account receivables management, automated surveys, tax and demographic reporting, sales analysis, automated scheduling, routing, load sheets, and marketing tools. Customers, on the other hand, can enjoy features such as real-time online ordering and reservations, online payment, digital contracts, electronic receipts, automated event reminders, and prompts to reorder the following year.

The software boasts a high level of customization, with Event Rental Systems having developed its own content management system (CMS) that allows businesses to add and modify pages and text as simply as using a word processor. For instance, businesses can create a "Testimonials" page using automatically gathered feedback, which is then automatically incorporated into the website's navigation. The system is suitable for building a new website or integrating with an existing one.

Accessible from any location with internet connectivity, including smartphones, the bounce house software promotes a hands-off approach, ensuring bookings even without the owner's direct involvement. The software has been designed to handle sudden increases in traffic and to accommodate a large number of simultaneous website visitors.

The company also emphasizes the value of effective search engine optimization (SEO) for ensuring top search results. The ERS software allows clients to create SEO-friendly websites to boost their business's online visibility. ERS claims to offer the industry's only mobile-friendly website with real-time online ordering capabilities.

A company spokesperson states, "The party rental business is demanding, with the usual challenges of inventory and delivery. Inadequate software can exacerbate the difficulties of an already tough industry. While creating a custom solution is possible, it takes considerable time and research to achieve the feature-rich experience we provide from the start. We constantly improve our products and services to deliver the best software experience, listening to customer feedback and incorporating their most-needed features. Our field-tested and refined software alleviates a significant burden, allowing businesses to focus on providing top-tier service to clients. We offer business advice and free technical support to assist you."

A Party Solution left this stellar review, "I'm really impressed with ERS system and not to mention the team over there! I honestly feel as if someone has taken my weekly routine and given it to them so that they could automate it. Everything that I have been doing manually from loading list, routing, reminders for the crew, etc...the system is now doing it for me. As I was leaving my current web designer/IT guy I told him that ERS has some big shoes to fill because he was awesome too, just that this system is now doing all the things listed above and more. Well, lets just say they have filled some big shoes!!! I've been with the program now for 2 months and can not wait to save even more time once the season really picks back up!" Bounce Town Inflatables added, "I have dealt with Lawrence with ERS several times. He is my go to guy to call. He is always there for me and even if he doesn?t know the answer he will do what it takes to get the answer. My website would definitely not be what it is without his help!"
