Brad Stein Media has worked with hundreds of customers over the years, and Stein?s own dedication is evident in every project he works on. It is recognizable in his studio?s output as well as the customer experience he provides, as many who have visited his studio will attest.

?We had an absolutely incredible photo shoot with Brad,? says one review, ?and we are thrilled with the photos we received! He worked with my daughter on her own vision and inspiration for her senior photos, and wow did he execute! He had so many poses, lighting ideas and creative concepts, and together the result was perfection! He made her feel very comfortable and confident in front of the camera and she liked that there were multiple locations and outfit changes so she had a variety to choose from. His rates were also very affordable for such high quality photography. I highly recommend Brad Stein Media and will treasure our photos for a lifetime!?

Having worked in the area for so long, Stein also has a gift for finding great spots to shoot in that bring out his subjects? best features. No matter what the tone of a shoot may be, he often knows how to track down the right location for the job. This similarly means he has captured memories in a large variety of conditions, rain or shine, wind or snow, and he is equally adept at contending with the unpredictability of the outdoors as he is utilizing indoor lighting to its full advantage.

Many shoots, Stein explains, benefit from the softness and richness of natural lighting, and he aims to capture photos and videos under such conditions whenever possible. In the event a scene (or local weather conditions) fail to meet expectations, the studio can provide a host of supplementary solutions to bring the quality of light up to the desired level. Stein employs every strategy, trick and industry-standard approach to get the photos his customers deserve, and he makes an equally considerable effort no matter who (or what) the focus of his attention may be.

The result of this is an undeniably jaw-dropping series of photos that capture the best a subject has to offer. For seniors and graduates, this means one of the most notable achievements in their lives can be immortalized in digital and print with Stein?s assistance.
