Pests don?t stand a chance with Backyard Bug Patrol in Great Falls, Virginia. Backyard Bug Patrol serves the Virginia and Maryland area, helping homeowners stay protected against pesky pests all year long. Recently, the company received a number of 5 star reviews for their excellent service. John Mitchell, the company?s lead supervisor, couldn?t be more proud of their customer satisfaction.

?We do a dirty job, and it?s good to know our customers appreciate our efforts,? says Mitchell.

The company specializes in tick and mosquito control, and for each home they customize a bug-repellant barrier to fit customer needs. Organic pest control options are available, as well. In addition to tick and mosquito protection, they offer preventative pest control for termites, ants, stink bugs, snakes, and rodents. Backyard Bug Patrol makes pest control easy, stress free, and safe for families. Customers can learn more about how they keep each home protected by contacting the company via their website or Google Business Profile.

Backyard Bug Patrol also offers commercial services for retail properties, shopping centers, office buildings, warehouses, commercial pools, sports clubs, and governmental organizations. They follow Integrated Pest Management protocols for all services, which is the certified operating procedure for pest control.

Backyard Bug Patrol offers a 5-star service program and guarantee to all their customers. They guarantee prompt and thorough communication before, during and after each service. They will get rid of anything that will attract more pests, such as standing water for mosquitoes. And, in the event that customers have any issues between services due to adverse weather or anything else , they will come back and service the property free of charge.

?We want our customers to know that we are committed to keeping their family, home or business 100% protected,? says Mitchell.

Customers love the 5 star service so much, they?ve left dozens of 5 star reviews. The first review comes from happy customer Linda Benson, who writes: ?I have used Backyard Bug for more than 5 years and would not hesitate to recommend their services to anyone in this waterside area. Living on a property that was surrounded by woods and marsh, made insect control a must. Now that I am in a more manageable piece of land, I did not hesitate to call on their services to maintain not only a healthy and bug-free environment for humans, but also count on Backyard Bugs to protect my pets!?

The second review comes from Rebecca Keiser, who says: ?We purchased the Flower Power program to control mosquitos in our yard. We definitely saw a decrease in mosquitos and could enjoy being outside in our yard this past summer. We've purchased the same program again for this coming summer. Backyard Bug Patrol was easy to communicate with, responsive, and on-time. They even came out after a big rain to spray again for "added protection". I highly recommend them.?

Founded in 2010, Backyard Bug Patrol is a family owned business established by Tom Mitchell, John?s father and Lead Technician. Known for his strong work ethic, Tom is a veteran of the pest control industry. His son John has followed in his footsteps as supervisor at BBP, and he?s excited about the future of the company.

?We?ve been in business for 10 years, and it all started when our entire family got Lyme disease from ticks in our backyard,? says Mitchell. ?Having experienced a real life tragedy, my Dad took it upon himself to ensure that our family was protected from disease-baring bugs again.?

John says they treat every service as if it were their own home. This level of service is what inspired this third 5 star review from Lucia Tucker, who writes: ?I absolutely love the services BBP provides. Having a child with a tick borne illness, it's extremely important to me that we keep ticks away. BBP does that. I am thankful for finding them.?
