BALTIMORE, MD - May 22, 2023 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Baltimore, MD based McHenry Roofing is providing a range of membrane roofing solutions to homeowners and businesses. This type of roofing is typically used for specific purposes, and the company will be pleased to help customers determine where best to utilize it on their properties.

Membrane roofing is considered by many to be an excellent, cost-effective answer in many situations as it provides a continuous, watertight surface that protects the structure's interior. In most cases, it is utilized as in flat roofing, but it can be applied in other areas as well, to a limited extent.

According to the Locust Point roofer, EPDM (ethylene propylene diene terpolymer) and PVC (polyvinyl chloride) are among the most common types of flat roof membranes, although asphalt-based products are still broadly in use as well. In commercial contexts, the company says membranes may be recommended for hotels, warehouses, apartments complexes and even schools. Conversely, homeowners will find that membrane roofing is a similarly ideal solution for relatively small projects, such as extensions, garage roofs and so on. Notably, adequate drainage has to be implemented in some way to avoid issues, and some roofs may be built at a minor angle in order to allow water to shed naturally.

Membranes can also be used on low-slope roofs, especially where tiles, slate or shingles would offer comparatively lower performance. However, steeper roofs have more economical (and better-performing) alternatives, so a contractor would likely not recommend membranes in such scenarios.

As with any industry niche, membrane roofing can be a complicated subject, and this may make customers less likely to investigate whether it would be beneficial for their project. Fortunately, McHenry Roofing is committed to helping customers understand the full extent of benefits and drawbacks with any roofing solution, giving them the insight they need to make informed decisions about their property. Membrane roofing is no different, and customers may expect the company to always back up a professional recommendation with an explanation as to why they believe it is the right answer.

“McHenry Roofing is your roofing partner no matter what you need,” states the company. “Our customers need not be roofing professionals to understand what is right for their home or business because we investigate everything on their behalf. We also report our findings directly to you, and the ultimate choice is always yours to make. All you have to do is hear us out, tell us what you want, and we will handle the rest.”

The company offers a wide variety of roofing services, including repair, maintenance and installation, and they are adept at working with a similarly wide range of materials. Given their years of experience, no project is too complicated for the McHenry Roofing team to take on, and they always welcome a challenge. Those who believe they are stuck without answers are invited to contact McHenry Roofing today. The company will be pleased to look into the matter and develop an appropriate solution that meets budgetary requirements.

McHenry Roofing also understands that certain situations necessitate a quick response. This means that customers can rely on the company to show up during emergencies, and they have been known to make an appearance during bad weather simply to reinforce a roof temporarily and prevent further damage (until better conditions allow a more permanent solution).

“A coworker referred McHenry Roofing to me,” says a customer in their review, “after I mentioned that I needed a contractor for my roof following a hail storm in Baltimore's Pigtown neighborhood. The team responded quickly to my roofing emergency and performed the necessary work temporarily before it began leaking during a rainstorm. They guaranteed that they would identify the source of the problem so that I wouldn't need to worry about future leaks. The roofers were completely transparent about the work that needed to be done, offered a competitive price and finished the job quickly. Most importantly, my roof has been steadily holding up since they completed repairs.”

Customers are welcome to contact McHenry Roofing by phone or email to learn more. The company will provide quotes and recommendations quickly upon request.
