

Cain's Mobility Announces Expert Accessibility Equipments Installations for Elderly People

December 08, 2015

December 08, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Working together as a collection of installers of mobility devices, Cain's Mobility has announced their expert installation and recommendation services of mobility devices such as walk-in bathtubs and stair lifts to help make lives easier for senior citizens.

Toilets, bathrooms and stairs are generally considered to be the parts of houses where people are more prone to accidents. Wet floors, stairs and all make them a bit dangerous for people, especially the people in their golden years who might find these places tricky to use. Mobility devices are something that comes as a solution to such worries. Working expertly for years on selling and installing mobility devices effectively, Cain's Mobility, a collection of expert installers of accessibility equipments, has announced their expert services for locations all over the USA.

Talking about the accessibility device services, Simon Cain, representing Cain's Mobility, said that accessibility devices are a boon for senior citizens and other people who have issues getting around or living their normal lives but it does require the high quality accessibility devices installed with expert precision. He added that their expert installers specialize in installing stair lifts, walk-in bathtubs and much more.

Simon said that bathrooms are somewhat the most dangerous room in house with wet floors and that's when a walk-in bathtub comes as a big relief. He added that these bathtubs have a swinging water-tight door in the side making it easier to enter the bath tub for senior citizens and others thereby providing them the independence of getting washed off by themselves. He further added staircases as one more area of concern for elderly people, because they create issues for seniors with weak knees and joints, making them prone to accidents. A solution for seniors in houses with stairs is a stair lift that has a chair lift set-up against the stairs that takes people up and down easily rather than them having to walk those stairs, Simon said. The third most important device he talked about was the Life Alert medical bracelets for elderly people and others which, along with other devices, can make lives safer and easier for people.

About the services, he said that their team of expert installers is whom they credit their success to. He said that their installers are highly trained, completely vetted, insured and licensed professionals with years of experience under their belt. With being in market for so many years and knowing ins and outs of it, we can provide best recommendations for our client's house, he said. With their expert services announced for almost every state of US, they can be used by the people for their loved ones to make their lives safer, easier and independent.

For more information, visit the company website.

###

For more information about Cain's Mobility, contact the company here: Cain's Mobility Simon Cain (234) 203-0202 info@cainsmobility.com Cain's Mobility, 111 W John St, Seattle, WA 98001

Cain's Mobility

Website: <https://cainsmobility.com/>

Email: info@cainsmobility.com

Phone: (234) 203-0202

