Hilton Head Island, SC - Travel insider 101 Things To Do magazine spotlights the vast network of Golf Courses in Hilton Head.

With its mild climate, appealing natural surroundings, and thoughtful planning, it's no wonder why Hilton Head is one of the most popular golf destinations in the US. Hilton Head Island is home to 26 on-island golf courses laid out by some of the industry's great course designers, including Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Gary Player, Davis Love III, Pete Dye, and Robert Trent Jones. Visitors can play anything from a nine-hole executive course to the world-famous Harbour Town Golf Links in the Sea Pines Resort, where the PGA golf tournament RBC Heritage Presented by Boeing is played every April.

With its vast network, the choices are endless. 101 Things To Do mag says Hilton Head also serves as a year-round hub for golf schools catering to players of all ages and skill levels. The best instructors will employ cutting-edge technology and methods to help players perfect their swings.

Meanwhile, the Hilton Head Visitors Magazine recommends nature trips and water sports as the best ways to enjoy the outdoors. Hilton Head is surrounded by water on all sides, so it's only fitting that tourists get to paddle around in kayaks and motor around on boats.

The island's bike trails provide another opportunity for visitors to connect with nature. Cyclists can take advantage of miles of trails on Hilton Head Island, not to mention the beach during low tide, adds 101 Things To Do magazine.

All available activities in Hilton Head have been sorted into convenient categories. Hotels, real estate, restaurants, fishing, arcades, courses, and tennis courts are all included on their list of amenities. In addition, the shopping districts, medical facilities, parks, excursions, and points of historical interest are also listed.

Meanwhile, customers can request a copy of the magazine for the comprehensive guide to entertaining pursuits in Hilton Head. To fill out the form, they may visit the website: <https://101thingshiltonhead.com/>.

Additionally, the magazine is distributed to communities in California, Oregon, Hawaii, Arizona, and the Outer Banks of North Carolina, in addition to Hilton Head and the neighboring areas.
