In Louisiana, many different types of conduct may result in a person being charged with a sex crime. Any criminal act that involves sexual activity or contact is considered a sex crime. First-degree rape, second-degree rape, and third-degree rape, as well as sexual battery, second-degree sexual battery, oral sexual battery, aggravated crime against nature, molestation of a juvenile, indecent behavior with juveniles, possession or production of pornography involving juveniles, and human trafficking, are all examples of sex
