Elk Horn Painting, a residential and commercial painting contractor based in Castle Rock, CO, is urging local customers to find out more about its high-quality cabinet painting services.

Cabinets accentuate the kitchen or workroom space to give it a distinctive character. When complemented with the home's countertops, appliances, and flooring, cabinets offer a visual highlight that can transform the entire style of the area they are located in. However, since they are often heavily used, they also undergo wear and tear much faster than other fixtures in the home.

Hunter Miller, the owner of Elk Horn Painting, talks about why cabinets need frequent repainting by saying, "Walls and baseboards are rarely as touched and interacted with when compared to cabinets. So, while it seems like a recurring expense, on the bright side, it gives you a chance to periodically refresh your interior. Whether you go for muted colors suited for a purely functional space or want something trendy that instantly grabs your attention, the options, especially with experienced painters such as Elk Horn Painting, are endless.?

Elk Horn Painting uses a four-step process for cabinet painting that ensures a thorough and exact paint job for all the home or commercial property's cabinetry. To begin, the company's painters remove all hardware and doors and clean the project area of any dust, dirt, and debris. Then, the exposed surfaces are scuffed-sanded, any holes, cracks, or irregularities are filled and sanded, and a bonding primer is applied to ensure all coats are even.

When it comes time to apply the paint, Elk Horn Painting's experienced house painters expertly coat all surfaces followed by a layer of a durable enamel topcoat. The topcoat is scratch-, chip-, and fingerprint-resistant for a polished, easy-to-clean finish. Finally, once the paint is fully dry, all doors and hardware are reinstalled, and all materials are removed. The painters then do a final quality inspection with the client to ensure they are fully satisfied.

The estimate was fair/competitive, the work was superior (Rodrigo was amazing in doing the bulk of the work), and everyone did a great job with professionalism and expertise. We highly recommend this company!?"

Another client writes, "Elkhorn was amazing from start to finish. Every single person we worked with was professional, friendly, and proficient. Amanda and Jill are delightful and went above and beyond to help all the pieces fall into place for our project, even non-paint-related ones. Jorge and his team were fast and extremely thorough with the prep work and protecting our furniture/decor. We were very impressed with how everything turned out. Would definitely recommend it!?
