

Vancouver Renovation Company Offers Artificial Grass Installation

December 10, 2015

December 10, 2015 -
Caliber West Renovations, a renovation company in Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada, has expanded its business by adding the installation of high-quality artificial grass. The company has already engaged in several landscaping projects in the past, but this additional service will help the company meet the rising demand for artificial grass. Full details are available through http://caliberwestrenovations.ca/artificial-grass-vancouver-bc/.

Because artificial grass doesn't have to be watered, it provides the advantage of remaining green even during water shortages. This is a valuable feature for Vancouver residents, who have not been able to water the grass during the summer for several years already because of restrictions resulting from the lack of water supply. The water restrictions that British Columbia residents experienced last year were the strictest in 12 years and, therefore, pointed to the need for more sustainable products, such as artificial grass.

"It's a low maintenance yet high-quality product," says Caliber West owner and president, Joey Monette. "I know our customers will like it, and enjoy having green grass in the summer months that doesn't need mowing."

For more information on artificial grass, the company, and the various services that they provide, the team is asking those who are interested in visiting them online at Caliber West's Facebook page. This particular social media account offers updates on services, promotions, and sales events. It also allows communication between consumers and representatives of the company.

The Facebook page is also a place where potential customers can read reviews left by various individuals and businesses, or create their own to share their experiences regarding products and services. Many people have already left a number of positive reviews that are a true testament to the quality of the grass and the service offered by Caliber West Renovations. "They say the grass is always greener on the other side," says Patricia K. "This really isn't the case anymore since I teamed up with Caliber West. Now, the grass is always greenest on my side, and I don't even have to water it anymore. I'm saving time, I'm protecting the environment and I am the envy of my neighbors. I absolutely love my artificial grass. I only wish I had thought of it sooner."

Caliber West Renovations looks forward to helping more people in Vancouver achieve the perfect, no-maintenance lawn, and more.
