For outdoor lighting services in the Fort Collins, Colorado area, Blingle! is a nationally recognized outdoor lighting company that provides the best of lighting services year round. The company serves both residential and commercial properties, offering holiday lighting, special event lighting, permanent lighting, and landscape and patio lighting. Blingle! Fort Collins owner Philip Schulyer spoke about his company and their mission.

"At Blingle! we love brightening up our Fort Collins community," said Schuyler. "Lighting makes a huge visual impact for any scenery, whether at home, work or a special event, like weddings. At Blingle! Fort Collins, it's our mission to bring the best and brightest in outdoor lighting installation and design, for the holiday seasons and all year round."

When it comes to what sets them apart from other lighting companies, Blingle! boasts expert lighting designers, innovative technology, excellent customer service, and lights that are twice as bright as any competitor. Clients can choose from one of the company's pre-made designs, or they can meet with a virtual or in-person designer to help craft the perfect lighting for their space. Their customer service team has been lauded by many online reviews as some of the friendliest people to work with. Plus when it comes to their lighting equipment, they only use professional grade lighting, which shines brighter than any bulbs that can be purchased at the store. Visit company website to see their gallery of lighting projects from past clients.

Holiday lighting is one of their most requested services at Bingle!. Bingle! offers holiday lighting for Christmas, Hanukkah, Valentine's Day, Halloween, Fourth of July and so much more. Permanent lighting is ideal for roofline lighting (on residential homes or commercial buildings), patio and deck lighting, and gazebo lighting. The company's special event lighting can make any occasion more beautiful and bright, including birthdays, graduations, corporate events, fundraisers, weddings and more.

Bingle! also offers a variety of lighting options, from low voltage LED lighting, to string lighting and patio chandeliers. Path lights and accessibility lighting are available through Bingle!, as well as landscape lighting, accent lights, and more.

Owner Schulyer is a Colorado native, and has homegrown experience of the varied weather conditions in The Centennial State. He applies his knowledge as local to lighting installation at Bingle!, offering invaluable expertise in how to properly install lights that can survive Colorado's harsh winters and rainy seasons.

"Everyone on the Bingle! team is an expert in outdoor lighting installation," says Schulyer. "We know what it takes to install lights the right way so that they last and keep shining brightly."

Bingle! aims to make their booking process easy for their clients. First, the company conducts a design consultation. This is where the team learns more about the clients' design needs and desires. Step two, the company creates a computer generated lighting demo. This is where clients can see their design and the team can make any necessary tweaks before the finished project.

The third step is a written proposal of the lighting design, and the fourth step is drafting and signing a contract for the project. At that time, an installation date is scheduled. Then upon the scheduled date, the Bingle! team will arrive for installation. They handle all parts of installation, and are careful to be mindful of not damaging property at all. During the duration of the lighting project, clients can call Bingle! at any time to perform maintenance at no additional charge. When the contract date has ended, the Bingle! Team will arrive to de-install lights from the property, easily and efficiently.

"Our process is smooth and transparent," says Schulyer. "We want our clients to be informed every step of the way, and have us on speed dial should they need any maintenance whatsoever."

The company has numerous 5 star reviews on Google and Yelp for their outstanding service, from the ease of installation, to the beauty of the lights, and the committed customer service team. This is why so many people in Fort Collins trust Bingle! for their outdoor lighting installation and design services.
