July 03, 2023 -
Australian furniture store Replica Furniture has added another reproduction to its repertoire of faithful high-quality replicas inspired by 20th Century designs.

The Replica Josef Hoffman No.811 Dining Chair is a Bentwood chair that mimics the design first created by prolific Austrian-Moravian architect Josef Hoffman in 1930. Since it is a Bentwood chair, the timber used to create the design has been bent into organic shapes using heat and pressure, a feature that leveraged the latest in the technology when it was first conceived and created in the late 19th Century. The manufacturing process is also what gave Bentwood chairs an appealing look that contrasted with the boxy and angular designs of the time.

Replica Furniture makes the chair available in two variants ? the Replica Josef Hoffman No. 811 Chair Black and Replica Josef Hoffman No. 811 Chair Dark Walnut. The color choices help homeowners and businesses pick the right version based on the look of their current interior décor. The chairs use European Beech timber in their construction. It features gauze underneath the seat to add strength and ensure longevity and natural woven cane webbing in the backrest for added support.

The company?s spokesperson shares more information about the design inspiration of the chairs by saying, ?Furniture in the Art Nouveau style, and the Art Deco style that eventually replaced it in popularity at the start of the 20th Century, is still, amazingly, the aesthetic of choice for several homeowners and businesses, especially those catering to high-income clients. The beauty of the creations from that era, which had just a hint of decadence to go along with their simplicity, is sought after even today by those with discerning tastes. The No. 811 chairs are built as a tribute to that timeless design and upgraded to be as comfortable as possible for the modern consumer.?
