

How Chicago Renovation Has Taken Over Home Remodeling

Highwood, IL ? Being in business for more than 25 years, Chicago Renovation & Development and its owner Brad Ashman have seen it all ? from basic room updates and full-home overhauls to fixing poorly done remodel jobs and disaster rescues. The company prides itself on its client service, which starts with really listening to what a homeowner is looking for to ensure the company delivers on that vision. This year, Chicago Renovation won its sixth and seventh Contractor of the Year awards from the National Association for the Remodeling Industry (NARI) Greater Chicagoland chapter for Best Basement Over $250,000 category and Residential Bath $50,001 to $75,000. Where other remodeling companies struggle when it comes to responsiveness, timeliness, and quality, these awards highlight Chicago Renovation?s dedication to quality work, client satisfaction and industry excellence.

Ashman chooses to tell it like it is and provides the best plan to get back on track when complications arise. In his own words, ?That transparency extends into everything we do ? from how we communicate in an ongoing fashion with our clients so they always know the status of each project to the way we conduct ourselves on a job site by following Code compliance or better and ensuring we have the proper insurance and liability coverages. When you do things the right way, people respect that approach and the business benefits from happy clients and positive reviews and recommendations.?

Chicago Renovation manages remodeling jobs across the greater Chicagoland area, from the northern suburbs of Highland Park, Evanston, Winnetka and Northbrook, to city neighborhoods like Wicker Park, Roscoe Village, Edgewater and Lakeview. The team is composed of experts in tiling, electrical, plumbing and carpentry, under the master guidance of Brad Ashman. Ashman began his construction career after a college fraternity project sparked a lifelong interest and pursuit of remodeling and building knowledge that has led him to becoming one of only seven Master Certified Remodelers in the Chicagoland area by NARI. Master Certified Remodelers are professionals with 10 or more years as a NARI Certified Remodeler who are recognized as leaders in the remodeling industry and have shown a dedication to the industry through leadership within their local NARI chapter or community and a commitment to professional development and continuing education.

The business specializes in bath and kitchen remodels, along with basements and home additions, custom bars and hutches, decks and offices. And while older, historic homes tend to have their fair share of issues, Chicago Renovation revels in those projects as they ensure each historic renovation preserves the beauty and significance of the original work. The team has completed approximately 750 projects since 1999, with baths being the top homeowner-requested project.

?The difference between a good contractor and a bad contractor - or any business entity - is how they respond when things go south,? said Ashman. ?Everybody is great when things are going well, but it?s how they respond when things are not going well. That?s when we shine. We run toward problems to solve them, and do not run away when things get difficult. That?s the difference between the true professionals and the rest of the bunch.?
