Glenview, Ill. - The start of summer brings abundant sunshine and bright days, a welcome relief from the darker winter months endured in Chicago. However, winter will come again and Houseworks Daylighting Solutions is here to help homeowners continue to revel in natural daylight with a variety of skylights, Sun Tunnels and roof windows. Even on the darkest of days, having the option to let natural light into a home can change the overall look and feel of a home or business. Houseworks Daylighting Solutions is the hands-down expert in this field, having been in business since 2001 and selling and installing more residential and commercial skylights than any other company in Illinois and Iowa.

"Our mission has always been focused on providing our customers top-quality products, exceptional service and thorough knowledge about our craft," said Jeff Brooks, owner of Houseworks Daylighting Solutions. "We're a proud Signature Skylight Specialist by VELUX, our dealer partner, which means we follow the highest levels of quality installation, craftsmanship, competency and ethical business practices. As an elite service provider, we dedicate ourselves to maintaining and exceeding those requirements."

Skylights and Sun Tunnels are an especially easy way to brighten up a home or business for a modest investment. There are a number of options available to fit every need and desired function ? from solar-powered venting skylights with blinds and shades to Sun Tunnels perfect for smaller rooms and modular skylights for larger commercial installations. The variety of options ? many of which qualify for the 30% Solar Federal Tax Credit ? can be seen at www.myskylights.com.

The Better Business Bureau has recognized Houseworks Daylighting Solutions? commitment to quality products and service with its Complaint-Free Award every year since the company joined the BBB in 2008, signifying that the organization has never received a consumer complaint about the business. Across numerous consumer review sites, Houseworks Daylighting Solutions consistently receives strong ratings and praise from happy homeowners.

Houseworks Daylighting Solutions is the greater Chicagoland area?s most trusted skylight specialist, serving areas from Lake Zurich, Glenview, Park Ridge, Evanston and Naperville to Orland Park, Wheaton, Downers Grove, Deer Park and Arlington Heights. While the company is the expert when it comes to skylights, it also specializes in other products like roof windows and solar attic fans. Roof windows not only allow for panoramic views while increasing energy efficiency, some models also provide easy roof access for repairs, maintenance and emergency egress. Solar attic fans help keep your attic ventilated which can help your roof last longer, while also qualifying for the 30% Solar Federal Tax Credit ? a win-win!
