March 31, 2015 -

WebshopKanalen, a webshop solutions company based in Denmark, has released new videos on webshop solutions through its new YouTube channel, depicting its webshop system. The company provides ample insights to entrepreneurs and small business startups on how to create a webshop, and be successful with their online businesses through a variety of links and videos.

Webshop Kanalen offers a large selection of informative video footage through the company's YouTube channel to small business owners in need of guidance on which types of systems to choose and how the webshop concept could work for them. These video cover various subject matter, such as how to start a webshop, properly use the billing tools, and how to choose a system based on price and advantages.

Users who access the Webshop Kanalen video channel on YouTube will learn about basic, professional and unlimited webshop packages which range from $29 per month to $179 per month. These packages vary in terms of features based on the chosen price point, but each includes a specific amount of storage, a transaction fee, 24/7 support, and additional features for the more advanced packages such as abandoned cart recovery and professional reports.

The main focus of the WebShopKanalen YouTube channel is to help clients, new and existing, to get a better feel for the webshop system and what it can do for small businesses. It passes through categories such as orders, customers, products, collections, discounts, gift cards, reports, as well as apps and settings that can be added and altered to customize the setup for each individual user.

With different web layouts to choose from, and a variety of business options from clothing to food and drink, the company is suggesting that users can customize their themes based on a selection of free and paid selections. WebShopKanalen has encouraged interested new clients to take advantage of the 14 day free trial offered by the program as seen in one of the many videos displayed on the company's YouTube channel.

The outline for the WebShopKanalen system represents various industries as shown through the YouTube channel. It sorts these along with other themes for users to select and customize their platform to better benefit individual businesses. The company has made it known that these customizable options are exactly why ecommerce websites should be taking advantage of the WebShop system as big online businesses continue to expand and grow over the next decade.

One other fast fact that the YouTube presentations supply through the WebShopKanalen YouTube channel is that all of these themes, tools, options, and customized applications are available to WebShop users not only through a PC, but through a tablet or mobile phone as well. This is listed as one of the major benefits of the system, and is represented as having a high impact on online traffic and revenue.
