The money he?s getting on his settlement is going to pay for his entire college education, which is life changing for my family. Of course nothing can undo what happened and the trauma, but this is a significant amount that?s going to put him back on track. Again, thank you from the bottom of my heart. When looking for a truck accident lawyer near me Orange residents can also depend on the Napolin personal injury law firm. Since pickup trucks are much heavier than cars and motorcycles, they tend to have heavier impacts during a collision, which means higher damages. Furthermore, a truck with an empty bed has unequal weight distribution, which can result into loss of control during rapid deceleration and acceleration.

Alexander D. Napolin says, ?If you obeyed all traffic laws, watched the road and left adequate space, yet still ended up in a crash, you may have legal recourse. Your recourse is in the form of a lawsuit against the negligent driver who caused the collision. The size of your lawsuit depends on the severity and extent of the injuries that you sustained in the crash.
