Greg O'Connell, co-owner of EPS Landscaping & Tree Service LLC, says, ?If you are looking to spruce up your business?s image, commercial landscaping is an excellent way to attract more customers. Not only do commercial landscapers install necessary equipment and decor, they can also offer your business monthly maintenance repairs and check-ups. Plants are not only popular, but affordable and easy to care for. Adding just a few plants or shrubs near the front of your business can greatly improve the façade. Commercial landscape design can also do a lot to boost your image, but these types of projects typically require more time and planning. A landscaper who specializes in commercial landscaping will guide you through all the steps, from planning to figuring out a sustainable maintenance plan.?

Getting the services of a qualified and experienced landscape specialist is vital because of their expertise in the local laws in Florida for certain neighborhoods and the native and low-maintenance plants in Florida. They can also provide professional tips with regards to landscape design. There are many landscape designs to choose from but the most popular is the tropical landscape, which blends well with pool landscaping. A luxuriant scenery can provide an ambience of peace and calm, which can be suitable not just for a business but also for the home. For residential properties, landscape design can help in boosting the market value of a property. Preparing for the sale of a property by beautifying its landscape can be a smart financial move as it increases its selling price.

For a business, a beautiful landscape can provide returns on investment much sooner than selling the property. This is because customers are likely to enter a store or commercial establishment that has great curb appeal. Meanwhile, when planning a landscaping project it is also important to consider recurring costs, such as watering the lawn and maintenance and management. Luckily, technology now offers ways to easily maintain a landscape. For instance, it would be a good idea to use smart technology, such as motion sensors and voice recognition, and energy-efficient features. The American Society of Landscape Architects suggests investing 10 percent of the value of the property on landscaping. Studies have shown that landscaping can boost the resale value of a building by up to 14 percent and hasten its sale by six weeks.
