ON based Better Window and Door is simplifying window replacements and installations for homeowners in Windsor and beyond. Offering both pre-made options as well as custom pieces, the window and door company is committed to delivering an exemplary service across a range of styles, budgets and more.

“You may not think twice about your windows on the average day,” comments a representative from Better Window and Door, “but they can play a vital role in maintaining your home’s ambiance, lighting, comfort and so on. A window should do more than allow light to cross its bounds; it should play an active part in the home’s overall defense against the elements and help maintain a high degree of energy efficiency. You will find that our windows are designed to meet and exceed these goals.”

On one hand, Better Window and Door’s products are capable of fulfilling a variety of requirements. On the other hand, the company’s services are designed to ensure homeowners will enjoy every part of the experience, from the first time they get in touch with Better Window and Door to the day of installation and beyond. The company believes that an exceptional product should be supported by great customer service, and homeowners tend to find that this allows for a completely hassle-free process when they decide to proceed with an upgrade.

Barbara M. shares in a review, "From start to finish, Allan was fantastic to work with. He was very responsive to any questions I had. The cost was reasonable. Allan and his sons were very respectful at all times. They made sure everything was cleaned up after their work was done. They put the windows in very precisely and they made sure everything was placed right. I highly recommend Better Window and Door."

Homeowners will find that it is easy to highlight exactly what makes the windows themselves so great. For instance, Better Window and Door's options effectively get rid of a multitude of annoyances, including unwanted condensation, low durability, chipping and even fading. These windows are also designed to be energy-efficient, limiting energy transfer from one side of the pane to the other and allowing homes to maintain their indoor temperature more effectively.

On top of this, the company's windows insulate against sound pollution, preventing outside noise from making its way inside. They also provide fade protection to carpet and furnishings by limiting the amount of sunlight that is exposed to them while allowing the interior to benefit from natural light during the day. Put together, these windows represent an excellent investment that can raise the value of a home once installed, so the advantages will be felt for years to come.

Better Window and Door encourages homeowners to ask as many questions as possible when they meet one of the company's representatives, especially regarding the broad array of options at their disposal. Where a client has doubts regarding the best choice for their home, the team will be happy to provide a range of suitable recommendations, but they say this process tends to have the best results when the homeowner in question is able to make informed decisions regarding their next upgrade. As such, the company's foremost property is often to explain the benefits of all available options and let the homeowner decide which suits them best.

Daniel M. says in a review, "This business definitely deserves 5 stars. Reasonable price. Windows, great quality, but the customer service is incredible. The salesperson (Better Window and Door) came to our home quickly, worked with us on design and told us when to expect installation. The office staff called with updates on installation. The crew who installed the window were friendly, professional and did a great job, including an amazing clean up. I would highly recommend this company!"
