December 10, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Kris Degioia, the social media marketing guru, one of the Forbes Top 10 Digital strategists, a national speaker and the CEO of Leading Social Media Marketing firm WTF Multimedia celebrates the success of the firm which she started just a year and half ago and turned into a global firm.

Kris Degioia is immensely proud of all her amazing achievements. The social media marketing guru, who has earned a huge name for herself worldwide for her expert and successful social media marketing strategies, hopes she has become an inspiration. Her most prized achievement is the massive success of her online marketing and advertising company ?WTF Multimedia?, which she started just a year and a half ago, turned it in to one of the biggest firms in Nashville, TN, and now has clients all across the globe.

Before starting off with her own firm, Kris was successfully working as Senior VP of Marketing at Google for more than 10 years in New York city. She credits such a long and successful run as VP with Google as the foundation of her expertise. As she herself says, ?My main aim in life is to do something that matters or say something different.? Following that mantra, she started her own advertising and online marketing firm WTF Multimedia 18 months ago to provide a platform for the creative ideas of people and to assist her clients with their expert online marketing, social media management and advertising services.

As told, the company started small and made its way up to the top in such a small period of time due to the extremely successful results that they gave. She used her expertise and brought together a team of most talented and skilled minds of the niche and started giving impressive results. Starting off as an online marketing firm in Nashville Tennessee, the company rapidly became one of the biggest firms of the city and has clients worldwide.

WTF Multimedia offers SEO, online advertising, strategy and consulting, website development, content marketing, social media management and website design services to their clients all across the globe. As the company officials say, ?The huge success that the company has seen is not a surprise as the company strategies and services are being lead by Kris Degioia who inspires everyone and brings the best out of all.?

Forbes has named her as one of the Top 10 Digital Strategists and she also is listed in Forbes Top 50 Social Media Marketers. A national speaker, Kris is an inspiring figure and is constantly working on her philosophy in life, ?A lot of people run a race to see who is fastest. I run to see who has most guts, who can punish himself into exhausting pace and then at the end, punish himself even more.?
