Fairfax, VA based Craig Van Lines is reaching out to homeowners across the region who are in need of a comprehensive moving service. The company assures everyone that they can take care of every aspect of a move, essentially providing a door-to-door service. Interested parties are invited to call Craig Van Lines today to get started.

Craig Van Lines is a family owned-and-operated business that has been active for four generations. The family is exceedingly proud of this fact as their present reputation is backed up by decades of excellent work and successful moves, transferring goods across the region and earning loyal customers for the better part of a century. The company continues to follow its founding principles to this day, and any customer need only call or email the Craig Van Lines office to ensure their next move will be taken care of by a dedicated professional.

One of the biggest advantages to choosing Craig Van Lines is their all-inclusive service. A customer may, if they prefer, hire the company solely for specific tasks, such as moving items from one location to another and so on. However, the team is more than capable of handling every point of a move, so a customer can offload virtually all of their responsibility (and stress) and have the company take care of packing, moving, unpacking and so on? even storage.

The movers are committed to offering an exemplary service at reasonable rates, but they understand that some may still wish to save as much money as possible, especially in these trying times. This is one reason they welcome customers who are prepared to handle the packing and so on by themselves, leaving only the most crucial tasks to the professionals at Craig Van Lines. Notably, the company is also willing to provide the same packing materials they use to ensure all items are protected during the journey.

Customers may still wish to engage the company?s services for certain types of items, such as antiques or pianos. Here, the right packing and moving techniques are crucial to ensuring no damage occurs during transfer, and it is always best to leave such tasks to an experienced professional. Craig Van Lines will be pleased to provide a suitable team upon request.

Craig Van Lines actively takes steps to maintain their reputation as one of the top moving companies in Northern VA, and this includes offering a combination of excellent moving assistance as well as unparalleled customer service. This has resulted in countless successful moves as well as satisfied customers who now trust no other company to move their goods and valuables.

?The three movers/packers arrived on time and worked very carefully, efficiently and continuously on two of the hottest days of the year,? shares Judith K. in a glowing review of the company. ?I got four estimates before choosing Craig Van Lines. The firm was the most thorough, looking in every closet and walking every possible approach to the apartment building I was moving from. They arrived on time for both the move out and the move in. Nothing was damaged and every piece of furniture was assembled and placed before they left. Delighted that I choose Craig Van Lines.?

Other customers are similarly positive in their comments, with some expanding on how their unique situation required a personal touch from the team to ensure everything went as smoothly as possible. Steven C. explains, ?We had a scheduling issue in that we needed our furniture picked up before settlement but not delivered until after we honored a commitment to be out of town. This resulted in Mr. Craig holding our furniture for an extra week. Since we moved in January, a slow time, and he had a truck available, Mr. Craig agreed to hold our furniture an extra week at no charge. The other movers would have charged extra for this.?

Craig Van Lines handles both residential and commercial moving needs in Gainesville, Arlington, Fairfax and more. Customers may either send the mover an email or call one of their trained service representatives directly to request a free quote for their next move. See more about their services here: Craig Van Lines Office Moving Company.
