December 14, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Kansas, MO - ProDental has recently released a mouth guard that is effective as a 3-in-1 dental device. The dental guard can function as a method to prevent teeth grinding, a way to whiten teeth and as a sports mouth guard.

The dental guard from ProDental are unique because they serve a multifunctional use. The mouth guards are also unique because they are designed by a dentist. The main owner is a certified dentist named Dr. Don Closson DDS. Dr. Closson has had 15 years experience in private practice and acquired his degree some 36 years ago. He has been active in the profession of dentistry teaching, managing dental practices and doing research and consulting.

This allows customers to order in confidence because they are sure to receive a top quality product. The dental guards / teeth whitening trays have been manufactured by an experienced dentist with a background in general dentistry, implant dentistry and dental sleep medicine. The mouth guard is suitable for use by both adults and teenagers.

The mouth guard stands out in the market because it has direct support from a dentist. The purchaser can contact the company by email or phone for additional customer support. Customers can garner assistance with whatever problem they encounter. The purchaser can especially receive help with the molding or fitting process of the mouth guards. This can allow the customer to fit the mouth guard perfectly to their mouth and teeth dimensions.

The dental guard is hygienic and made from FDA approved soft material. This is a thermoplastic polyvinyl material that is also durable. Customers have expressed appreciation that these dental guards / teeth whitening trays are also BPA free. This means that dangerous chemicals cannot seep into the mouth of wearers from the product.

The dental guards / teeth whitening trays are easily trimmed to comfortably fit any mouth size. They can be adapted for a wide variety of teeth sizes and alignments as well as mouth shapes. The mouth guard is very versatile and can be molded for optimal comfort to the user.

The professional dental guards / teeth whitening trays can be purchased from the number one shopping marketplace Amazon at an affordable price. Customers receive three quality mouth guards that can be used for multiple purposes.
