August 14, 2023 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Attorney Matthew Karr of The Heritage Law Center, based in Woburn, MA, is pleased to acknowledge that he has reached a new milestone this year. Having served people and their families over a 15-year career, he looks forward to continuing his practice in estate planning, elder law, and probate to ensure his community's rights and best interests are protected.

Attorneys operating at this level have to bring more than their experience and expertise to every case. Given the depth of the issues involved, clients often find themselves dealing with a great amount of stress, so a compassionate approach is always necessary to reassure them and help instill confidence in their case. Karr realized this early on in his career, and he has worked hard to connect with the people of Woburn, Massachusetts and beyond ever since.

Karr received his license in 2008 after completing his studies at Boston College Law School. Coupled with the experience he gained at a Boston law firm, that education gave him the knowhow he needed to open The Heritage Law Center in 2011. Since then, he has served his community by creating comprehensive estate plans that include trusts and wills, guiding people through MassHealth/Medicaid planning and elder law, and navigating individuals through probate.

Eventually, Matthew Karr opened his own law firm so he could provide a more personalized approach to estate planning and elder law. He gets to know each client and their needs so he can help them develop estate plans tailored to protect themselves, their assets, and their families and position older adults to get the healthcare they need.

Matthew Karr places an emphasis on communicating using easy-to-understand language and explanations for the complex concepts that are part of estate planning and elder law. When it comes to estate planning, he believes every client should understand the estate plan they get and how it will work for them. His efforts to help his community navigate elder law and estate planning also go above and beyond his duties at The Heritage Law Center.

Further, he works as a pro bono adviser to community senior centers, providing information for those who may not understand how an estate plan can impact them and their families. He also writes and speaks on estate planning issues, educating and informing readers who may not otherwise know where to begin.

Matthew Karr is also involved in the community as a faculty member for Massachusetts Continuing Legal Education, Inc. He is a member of the Massachusetts Chapter of the National Academy of Elder Law Attorneys, the National Association of Estate Planners & Councils, and the Life Care Planning Law Firms Association.

Recognized repeatedly for his efforts and achievements throughout his career as an estate planning and elder law attorney, Matthew Karr has also been named a Rising Star by Super Lawyers® Magazine five years in a row and a Five Star Financial Services Professional in Boston Magazine. This is a great honor for attorneys who have worked hard to represent their clients to ensure their needs are met.

Today, he stands ready to help anyone seeking out legal services for elder law, estate planning, or probate. He is always ready to help families as he puts his years of experience to work and continues his practice beyond these first 15 years.

Those who seek more information about The Heritage Law Center will find that it exists to help Massachusetts residents and their families navigate the complex world of elder law, estate planning, and probate.
