Brown Chiari LLP, a law firm based in Buffalo, NY, takes pride in having a reputation for excellence in personal injury litigation. They want to emphasize that they always put the recovery of the client first, not profit. That is why they are offering a free consultation and clients will only pay a percentage of their compensation once it has been awarded. In the event that the claim is not successful, the client is not required to pay them anything.

The firm is proud to have achieved the highest verdict in Niagara County history, which is $20 million for wrongful death involving a motor vehicle accident. In 2019, nine lawyers at the firm were chosen as Super Lawyers for 2019. They were also awarded the Best Law Firms award in 2021, the Best Lawyers in America award, and Best Lawyer of the Year in 2020 for Donald Chiari, and more.

A personal injury claim is a lawsuit involving the injury of an individual as a result of the negligence of another party. Some of the claim types that can be handled by a Buffalo personal injury lawyer include: motor vehicle accidents involving cars, motorcycles, and trucks; defective products; slip-and-fall accidents; dog bites; wrongful death; and nursing home abuse

The value of the claim will depend on the financial, emotional, and mental impact of the personal injury. Economic damages include those things that have a dollar value, such as medical bills, loss of income, and even future damages, such as future surgery. Non-economic damages provide a value for the mental and emotional suffering that resulted from the injury. Punitive damages are for the purpose of discouraging similar intentional or negligent actions.

Donald P. Chiari from Brown Chiari LLP says, "If you've been injured by someone's negligence or intent to harm, you may have grounds for a lawsuit with the lawyers at Brown Chiari LLP on your side.
