

ERTC GOV: A Clear Path To Refundable Tax Credits For Businesses

August 14, 2023

August 14, 2023 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Carmel, IN based ERTC GOV is helping businesses determine whether they may claim credit through the Employee Retention Tax Credit (ERTC) program, funded by the CARES Act. The firm urges interested parties to investigate whether they are eligible, given that a great deal of money is involved ? which can help businesses stay afloat in these uncertain times.

It is important for businesses in the US to understand what the ERTC program is and what it offers. According to the company, the ERTC program is a refundable tax credit for business owners in 2020 and 2021. There is a reason this program exists: the Covid-19 pandemic.

As a result of the Covid-19 pandemic, many businesses went through unprecedented upheaval where they were obliged to deal with lockdowns and dwindling economic opportunities. This led many to attempt to cut costs wherever possible, and one manner by which they may have done so is by reducing the size of their workforce. In an attempt to support businesses that held onto their employees, the ERTC program was launched, offering a refundable tax credit to those who retained their workforce.

Since the IRS looks unfavorably on fraudulent claims, a claim needs to be ironclad before it is submitted. Fortunately, this is made much simpler thanks to ERTC GOV's "Power of 3" service - which means there's 3 CPAs that review each claim to be sure they are correctly done. Any business can check their eligibility (and then continue through the process to obtain their tax credit) by working with ERTC GOV. The first step is as easy as filling out the company's questionnaire. The early steps are completely free, and no one will be charged until they decide to proceed with a claim.

Once the questionnaire is completed, a business owner will be prompted to upload any supporting documents to the company via a secure portal. This may include 941 returns, PPP assistance documents and raw payroll data. Since the objective is to file a claim without triggering an audit, every possible precaution is taken ? and this includes having the final calculations run past no fewer than three CPAs.

ERTC GOV will then help the applicant file the 941-X Amended payroll returns, following which they will wait to hear back from the IRS. Since the company does their due diligence, a business that gets to this point can expect to have their credit processed in due course. A check will be mailed for the amount they are due. ERTC GOV states that an eligible party may be due up to $26,000 Per W-2 Employee, which is no meager amount, especially for small-to-medium sized businesses. Further, what every business owner should understand is the fact that this tax credit is also available to those who have already received assistance through the Paycheck Protection Program (PPP).

The company says many businesses are erroneously dismissing the possibility of their eligibility due to this alone, and it may be partly fueled by the fact that it was initially not allowed. Today, however, it is, and business owners should waste no time getting their tax credit before any other changes are made. According to the company, the window of opportunity will not last forever, and the end is swiftly drawing near.

Those who are unfamiliar with ERTC GOV's work should be aware that the company has been active since as early as January 2022. Observing a need for ERTC-centric services, they invested in this specific training to ensure their staff would be capable of producing audit-proof applications for their clientele. It is notable that the company has enjoyed success after success to this date, proving conclusively that they were right to dedicate their attention to this field.

ERTC GOV is so certain of their work that their CPAs sign every client's claim themselves. This places the legal responsibility on the company's shoulders, an uncommon feature in the industry. Those who would like to take up ERTC GOV's offer of assistance may check their eligibility today by visiting the company's official
