December 15, 2015 -
The new Uploria Pet Corrector Spray has just been announced as available to be seen on Amazon.com.

Dogs can show signs of many out of the ordinary behavioral issues, and it is imperative to realize that training is never a way out to a problem which is behavioral in nature. Just as humans take care of themselves, pets too require the same attention for perfect health. As a result, it is imperative to appreciate the difference between training issues and behavioral issues when working with the dog. Dogs show a broad variety of reactions according to their hearing sensitivity and earlier conditioning.

The Uploria Pet Corrector Spray has been shown to help with excessive and unwanted barking; stop annoying jumping up; stop food stealing; stop place avoidance and more. Pet corrector contains a blast of harmless compressed air, ideal for interrupting undesirable behaviors. Pet corrector emits a loud hiss to stop unwanted behavior. The compressed air imitates hissing sounds like a snake, insects and birds such as geese, and other animals and produces a broad spectrum sound used to ward off predators. Domesticated pets have an intuitive sensitivity to this sound. Generally, the result is to grab the attention of the dog.

Pet Corrector is a safe and humane way of stopping unwanted behavior. Pet corrector immediately and painlessly cuts short bad behavior. Pet corrector, developed by an animal psychologist, Dr. Roger Mugford, includes a complete, easy to follow, detailed training guide with helpful training tips and key do's and don'ts. For best results, reward the dog immediately once the behavior has ceased.

The Pet Corrector is now also available in a handy 30ml, 50ml and 200ml size can, which can easily be slipped into a pocket. Pet Corrector should be used cautiously and responsibly, and the training guide be read thoroughly, so as not to traumatize or frighten the dog.

Pet corrector can safely and efficiently correct excessive barking, food stealing and chewing, furniture and place avoidance, jumping up and aggressiveness.
