New Braunfels, TX - August 15, 2023 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Dr. Mark Hickman, MD, FACS, a surgeon in New Braunfels, TX, wants to inform men who are planning to have a vasectomy reversed that he has made the procedure more accessible to them by offering two all-inclusive options. At his New Braunfels clinic, the cost to reverse a vasectomy can either be $3,300 or $4,200, no more no less. At $3,300, the procedure will be done under local anesthesia and includes an oral sedative. At $4,200, the procedure will be performed with the patient under IV sedation administered by a board certified anesthesiologist. Since these are all-inclusive options, the patient is assured that no additional fees or costs will be added.

Despite the relatively low cost of the procedure, Dr. Hickman's patients can have peace of mind in the knowledge that he is a highly skilled microsurgeon who has completed thousands of successful vasectomy reversals during the course of this career spanning 26 years, resulting into thousands of births and exultant new parents.

With Dr. Hickman's affordable all-inclusive fee, patients are also assured that there are no hidden fees and there will be no surprises when it comes time to pay the bill. And for those who don't reside in New Braunfels or are from other states, Dr. Hickman is inviting them to come to New Braunfels, which happens to be a tourist town and has many attractions like the two rivers running through the community: the Guadalupe River and the Comal River. To encourage those from other places to come to New Braunfels, Dr. Hickman has made special accommodation deals with local hotels, allowing the visitors to get a 50 percent discount on their hotel accommodations.

Those who come to New Braunfels for the vasectomy reversal surgery can hit two birds with one stone when they come to the tourist town where they can enjoy many sights and engage in a number of enjoyable activities, such as fishing, tubing rafting, and swimming. Visitors to the town can also enjoy a whole day of entertainment at Schlitterbahn, which is located right in the middle of New Braunfels. Schlitterbahn is the biggest water park in the United States.

The quaint village of Gruene is also located quite close to Dr. Hickman's clinic. Gruene has several restaurants and more than 20 shops and there is also good music and a country dance atmosphere during the evenings. For those who want more excitement, the Natural Bridge Caverns, which is a living cavern, is only 10 miles away from New Braunfels.

Meanwhile, in the vasectomy reversal procedure used by Dr. Hickman, he will look for the two ends of the vas deferens, free them from the surrounding scar tissue, and join them together with fine nylon suture and a powerful operating microscope and ensure a watertight closure. To provide a higher chance of success, before joining the two ends of the vas together, Dr. Hickman will get a sample fluid from the testicular end of the vas and examine it under a microscope. If there is no sperm or sperm parts in the fluid, this indicates the presence of an epididymal blowout, which is an obstruction. In this case, Dr. Hickman will need to perform a vasoepididymostomy in addition to the vasovasostomy. Fortunately, the offer is all-inclusive, which means there will be additional cost for the patient.

Launched in 1988, Microsurgical Vasectomy Reversals by Dr. Mark Hickman is a practice where he employs his pioneering microsurgical and minimally invasive methods for reversing a vasectomy. It was when he went for his general surgery residency training at the University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio that he came to know the microsurgery techniques used in cosmetic and reconstructive surgery. He immediately realized how microsurgery can offer a much better experience for his patients and he decided to use microsurgery and even develop a number of surgical instruments for the minimally invasive approach. He has already completed thousands of successful vasectomy reversals and has already lost count of how many pregnancies he has made possible.
