STAMFORD, CONNECTICUT ? Low-level laser therapy is a quickly growing alternative treatment, and at Safe Laser Therapy LLC, this innovative technology is a God-send for many people suffering chronic ailments. Safe Laser Therapy LLC serves locations throughout Connecticut and New York, bringing their state-of-the-art cold laser therapy to the Northeast. Founded by licensed laser therapist, Malti Gupta, Safe Laser Therapy LLC aims to inform the public about their groundbreaking technology that many people call life-changing.

?Laser therapy is a life-changing treatment for people who want to live a healthier life without becoming dependent on pharmaceuticals,? said Gupta. ?The secret to laser therapy is its ability to stimulate cellular rejuvenation through low light. This stimulation detoxifies all the cells of the body, helping to purify it and restore balance to the body?s energy systems. This is why within a few sessions, patients can see such an impressive improvement in their health, whether they want to lose weight, alleviate pain, quit smoking, or more. I?ve even used laser therapy to help my brother, a lifelong chronic smoker, quit cigarettes for good.?

Gupta shares how cold laser therapy works in detail on her blog published on her website. The procedure itself is non-invasive, and doesn't cause any pain or burning, unlike the name suggests. Her clinic offers treatment for quitting smoking, weight loss, skin rejuvenation, hair restoration, detoxification, pain relief, and stress relief.

For quitting smoking, each treatment session is about 45 minutes long, followed by an hour long counseling meeting. Typically, patients can expect to spend 2.5 hours in-office when they come for treatment. While the effects can be felt after just one session, Gupta's team offers a secondary session to ensure improvements have been made. A third laser therapy treatment is available at an additional cost, should the patient like to receive more treatment for their smoking addiction.

For each service, there are different parameters on how long each session takes. For example, weight loss sessions can take up to 90 minutes, while detoxification is 60 minutes. For more information on each treatment duration, please visit the company website.

One of the most popular treatments offered at Safe Laser Therapy is their weight loss therapy. The weight loss program starts with a consultation with Gupta where she learns about what's been going on with the patient in regards to their weight gain. This is when she'll learn about any conditions, such as menopause, stress, etc. During the consultation, Gupta will offer a comprehensive weight loss program to fit the patient's individual needs. Following the consultation, Gupta will administer cold laser therapy, infrared wrap therapy, or a combination of both. She will then follow up with a supplement and dietary recommendation. Within a few days, patients will start to see shifts in their body composition, revealing a healthier, more toned figure. Before and after pictures of weight loss therapy can be found on the company website.

"Stress is one of the biggest reasons people gain weight," said Gupta. "Treating weight loss without treating stress will inevitably cause the weight to come back on. This is why I offer a combination of cold laser therapy and infrared wrap therapy because the two together helps destress and trigger weight loss. This is how we get to the root cause of weight gain."

While cold laser therapy can be beneficial for many, there are people who are not the right candidates for this treatment. Please contact their office and speak with the team to find out which health conditions are not right for cold laser therapy.
