Caledon, Canada - Christmas is a fun time for the family and their children. It allows the children the chance to receive gifts and get excited for a good period of the year. The holidays is also a time to decorate the house to make it look more presentable and playful. Fun Chalk has shown a fun idea for decoration of windows on their Instagram page. The company has used chalk board markers to create a nice project for children.

According to Fun Chalk, the chalk board markers can make markings on windows that simulate Christmas lights. For an example, the markers were used to create a colorful string of lights accompanied by the phrase ?Merry & Bright.? When the sun or some other illumination pours through the windows, the decorated lights appear very bright.

This decoration is a workable alternative to having lights on windows of the house this holiday season. The fluorescent nature of the chalk board markers highlight the windows and create a bright and glowing effect.

The company remarked that the marker decoration was better than having lights on the windows for a few reasons.

The normal lights utilized for Christmas use much electrical power. Homeowners may find themselves with a hefty power bill following the holiday season. However, using the chalk board markers means no additional use of electricity. Additionally, since the liquid chalk markers have eight different neon colors, holiday decorators can have varied options as to the types of lights drawn on windows. This is usually more than the standard run of Christmas lights.

Parents won?t have to worry about children making a mess while doing the decorations. The chalk board markers are made with premium ink. This ink is guaranteed by the company to not drip, smudge or fade easily. That means children can use the markers simply and efficiently. Clean-up is also an easy task. The decorator simply uses a damp cloth to wipe and erase.

The chalk board markers are considered safe for use by children. According to the company, the liquid chalk markers are non-toxic, xylene-free, odor-free and dust-free. They have also been tested to conform to all the requirements of the American Society for Testing and Materials and the European Standard for Toy Safety Testing.

The chalk board markers are a nice gift to use for the holidays and are made available on the giant online portal Amazon. The customer can save 10% off each qualifying purchase offered by Gold Star Selections if they buy 2 of the 8 Pack of the product. This can be achieved once the customer enters the code SS3F6NAB at checkout.
