

Sell My House Fast Austin Company Offers Solution to Home Sellers Affected by High Interest Rates

September 05, 2023

Austin, Texas - September 05, 2023 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Austin All Cash, a cash home buying company in Austin, TX, wants to highlight their solution to home sellers experiencing difficulties in selling their property as a result of the prevailing high interest rates that are discouraging people from buying a home at the present time. The result of the high rates is that those who want to buy a home are postponing their plans in the hope that the rates will go down in the future. This means that there are less people in the market who want to purchase a home, which tends to push down home prices.

According to the latest statistics, home prices in Austin in July 2023 were down 10.0 percent compared to last year. Furthermore, on average, homes in Austin took 48 days to get sold compared to just 34 days in 2022. In addition, on the average, the selling price was 97.5 percent of the list price, which means that home sellers have not been getting their desired selling price. Austin All Cash may offer a better option by allowing homeowners in Austin to sell their house fast for cash.

Dominic and Claudine Gauchat say, "We at Austin All Cash House Buyers are experienced home buyers who will pay cash for your Austin, TX house, "as-is" in any condition. We're a local, family-run business and have helped hundreds of homeowners sell fast since 2014. We buy houses in Austin, TX and surrounding areas. So, if you're trying to sell your house fast, we'd love to talk. In addition, we're not real estate agents ? we are home buyers. Which means, when you work with us, there's no listing your home, getting it ready for all the showings, dealing with repairs, negotiating with buyers and agents, or worrying about financing falling apart. On the other hand, real estate agent-led sales can take weeks or even months with no guarantee that your Austin house will sell.?

A homeowner wishing to sell their property to Austin All Cash will simply need to go through three simple steps. The first step is to contact Austin All Cash by filling out their online form or calling them on the phone. Once they have received the information from the home seller, they will provide a "no obligation" offer for the home. But before that, they will contact the home seller to know more about the home that is being sold and why the client wants to sell. The second step consists of Austin All Cash sending a representative to visit and assess the property. This professional will make a meticulous evaluation of the house and Austin All Cash will provide an offer to the homeowner. In the third step, they pay the amount they offered in cash to the home seller. The homeowner can choose the closing date and they will close the deal through a title company and send the cash amount to the home seller. The amount provided will be in full because there are no commissions or fees to pay, and they will also pay the title company.

Austin All Cash was created by husband and wife Dominic and Claudine Gauchat who launched the business in Sydney, Australia but later on moved to Austin, TX. This family owned and operated business has been helping home sellers in Texas since 2014. They want to emphasize that what makes them different from other cash homebuyers is that they truly care about each homeowner they work with. Their primary goal is always to determine the best possible solution for every home seller, particularly for their situation, and avoid the hassle that typically comes with the selling process. Their service area includes Austin, Buda, Kyle, Pflugerville, Manor, Round Rock, Dripping Springs, and Elgin.
