While the team lives up to their reputation of being able to process all necessary paperwork and complete a sale in 5-7 days (provided the seller wishes to move forward), there are several other factors at play that contribute to the speed at which a house can be sold. For instance, those who have sold a property in the past or are currently watching a house languish on the open market will know that a great deal of additional investment often has to be made to prepare for a sale. This is often considered an unavoidable step, but it is fortunately not necessary when sellers choose a direct home buyer to handle the transaction.

According to Texas All Cash, the company is ready to purchase houses no matter what condition they are in, bypassing a seller's need to put money up for renovations, cleanup and so on. Along with costing more, these steps take time to complete, adding weeks or even months to a seller's expected timeline. This also does not take into account the fact that a house can have excellent curb appeal and still not attract potential buyers due to conditions outside of the seller's control, such as its address, the condition of other homes in the vicinity and so on.

None of this matters to Texas All Cash, however. The company is pleased to confirm that they purchase homes 100% as-is. They have worked with properties that have a variety of issues, from needing repairs to suffering water or fire damage and more. See more here: Sell My House Fast San Antonio.

Texas All Cash is also known for their commitment to customer service. As a local business, many of the company's policies are centered around giving a seller all the information and support they need to make an informed decision (and then respecting that decision).

In a review, T. Lambert shares an inside look at the way the company proceeds through each sale. The review begins by explaining, "If you need to sell a distressed property without any hassles, then Texas All

Cash is a good source. My elderly mother needed to sell her 38-year-old home that needed major updates. We were able to accomplish this in 23 days.?

The client also highlights the fact that each member of the Texas All Cash team is committed to their role in the transaction, and many of the steps they take are expressly designed to make a sale as convenient and straightforward as possible for the seller. Given how complicated and frustrating the traditional real estate market can be, many choose to work with a direct home buyer simply out of a desire to avoid dealing with so much stress.

The review adds, "Ryan was our initial contact who quickly inspected the home and presented an offer. Dominic took over and found a solution to get the highest offer possible and showed remarkable patience and understanding in dealing with a senior citizen. Syrine, who works in their office, was professional in delivering documents and answering any questions. And, finally, we worked with Jennifer at Excel Title on the home closing. She sent a notary public to our home to handle the closing, and funds were wired the next business day. You will not get market value for your property, but they will work with you to make a fair offer.?"

Texas All Cash emphasizes that sellers always have every right to walk away if they do not find the company's offer to be satisfactory. However, the team is experienced at appraising properties accurately, and the offers they make are reflective of this. They are proud to confirm that sellers are typically satisfied with the cash they receive.
