April 03, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Total Paintball Gear, an online paintball supplies retailer, has announced that they sell a large selection of paintball gear; interested consumers can click here to view the selection. The products sold through the website include a number of different paintball equipment such as guns, ammo, and BDU clothing.

On average, paintball gear tend to be expensive, but the company has made it clear that their clothing, guns, and accessories are all lowest price guaranteed. In fact, they have said the following in regards to their pricing:

"We work hard to make sure that our prices are the best around, but if you find a site that offers a lower price within 30 days after the date we ship your order, let us know and we'll credit your original payment method for the difference plus an additional 10%. If we lower our own price within 30 days after we ship your order, let us know and we'll refund you the difference as well."

The company also offers sales on a large selection of goods regularly, with current sales items ranging from 10% to 22% off. Customers who view the products will see a number of options along the top of the website, this provides access to package deals, the company blog, air tanks, clothing and protection, hoppers, barrels, gift certificates and a multitude of other selectable product and informational categories.

Shipping from Total Paintball Gear is worldwide, with free same day shipping being offered on orders over $145.00, and orders outside of Canada ship without sales tax. The company has also stated that the products they carry are all known brands and have good reputations within the paintball community so that consumers recognize what they are buying and whether it is reliable.

Safety is an utmost concern as seen through the website's many options for clothing and pad sales. They have also made it clear that their shipping process is safe and secure, and have said the following about this:

"We send you an email receipt when you order to let you know it was placed successfully. Then, we send a shipping confirmation email to let you know when it shipped. If there is ever a problem with your order, like a credit card decline or backorder, we always email you within 24 hours. Never again will you be left wondering!"

Aside from the standard guns, ammunition, tactical gear, accessories, and masks, the team at Total Paintball Gear also supplies upgrades on paintball gun parts. This sets them apart from many other competitor paintball suppliers, as it allows consumers to upgrade their paintball gun through the use of a magazine conversion kit, gun tools, and DMAG parts, with a high grade selection of names for use.
