September 25, 2023 -
Bohemia, NY based Newhouse Restoration is pleased to confirm that soot cleaning services are being made available through their team. Should an area or property need to be boarded up, manually cleared of soot and smoke damage or even sanitized for safe breathing and more, Newhouse Restoration states they can handle it all.

Soot cleaning is being made available to the community as part of the company?s overall fire damage restoration service. Since soot damage tends to occur in concert with broader fire damage, the company says customers may benefit from an understanding of the general processes and solutions the team implements for such situations.

?It is likely that you will be able to deal with minor soot damage on your own,? the company comments, ?using common cleansers that are already in your household. However, soot accumulated over years or as a result of a fire will be more troublesome. This is where you need professional help restoring your home, and this goes beyond dealing with an eyesore. The aftermath of a fire can leave a host of harmful chemicals on every surface as well as in the air itself, potentially harming your eyes, throat and lungs. For you and your family?s safety, make sure your fire and smoke damage restoration is done by a reputable company.?

In Bohemia, NY, that company is Newhouse Restoration, which is already widely known for their ability to guide homeowners after such disasters take place. The team makes it a point to avoid underestimating the destructive potential of any kind of fire, even those which have a relatively minor spread, and this means they are ready and willing to provide assistance to anyone in need.

In certain unfortunate situations, a fire may get so destructive that it requires the intervention of the fire department. In this case, property owners can expect water damage to be added to their list of concerns ? an unavoidable result of firefighting efforts. This may appear counter-intuitive, but the company says it is common for buildings to have both fire and water damage in such circumstances. Fortunately, Newhouse Restoration is capable of dealing with this as well.

The team always begins their work by ensuring that no further damage will take place among the remaining property. After a fire department eliminates a blaze, for instance, the property in question will continue to deteriorate for some time. Newhouse Restoration can halt this advance more decisively and salvage any unaffected items if possible. The company adds that it is never too late to call for help since new issues can develop even days after a fire is put out, such as mold arising from organic surfaces exposed to excess moisture. This is one reason the company also offers mold removal services.

Those curious about the company?s work ethic may learn more by looking up their reviews. As Michael D. says, ?I?ve been taught that if something is too good to be true, it usually is. Well, that was not the case with Newhouse Restoration. When my in-laws? house got over 5 feet of water in the basement and a river flowing in their kitchen. Josh came in and said not to worry and that his job was to make this as stress-free as possible for us. And that he did. He handled almost all things insurance-related as well! At times, I even forgot about the house, which for me is saying a whole lot. Also, every person that Josh has with him are stellar people as well. I wholeheartedly give him and his organization a 5-Star review.?

John P. similarly says, ?The Newhouse Restoration team was so efficient and friendly and very professional. They took a lot of pressure off the decisions that I had to make. Josh Newhouse was able to get us scheduled immediately and was here within hours to start resolving flood issues in my basement. I will suggest Newhouse to anyone that needs safe and professional restoration.?

Newhouse Restoration urges the community to contact their Bohemia office as soon as possible once fire, soot or water damage is noticed. The company can also assist with storm damage, asbestos removal and more.
