PuroClean of Post Falls, Idaho, a company that provides mold remediation and other commercial property restoration services, is proud to highlight the five star reviews they have been receiving. In a recent review, Lynn K. gave them five stars and said, ?They came as quick as possible and were very efficient and caring and took good care of our things as they pack them away in boxes and were responsive to the things that we needed.?

Mark Davis, Chairman and CEO of PuroClean, says, ?PuroClean offers mold remediation services to stem the tide of mold, as well as cleaning including addressing the source of mold odor to restore your home or business to its pre-loss condition. Remediation of mold can be a serious endeavor, and PuroClean has the expertise and technology for the job. We treat mold-damaged property as if it were our own. PuroClean?s remediation experts use the latest technology to identify both mold and the moisture source that feeds mold growth.?

Mold remediation is vital because mold damage can have significant consequences for the home or business. It may result into health-related problems if left unattended or if it is not dried as soon as possible. Too much moisture in the area can allow the mold to grow and multiply fast and this can result into pungent odors and structural deterioration. Some of the possible reasons for mold damage are: construction defects, plumbing failures, appliance water line or drain line breaks, improper maintenance, and weather-related issues including storms and hurricanes. The technicians from PuroClean are all IICRC-certified and will always comply with industry standards for mold remediation.

Mark Davis says, ?Each independently owned and operated PuroClean franchise works with indoor environmental professionals (IEPs) and laboratories in an effort to protect you and your family from potentially dangerous mold situations. PuroClean professionals are trained, IICRC certified, ready to mitigate mold losses and meet every challenge with professionalism, reliability, compassion, and respect.?

In addition to mold remediation, PuroClean can also provide water damage remediation, fire damage remediation, biohazard cleanup, reconstruction, and more. For fire damaged homes or buildings, they offer fire and smoke damage restoration. They want to emphasize that finding a fire damage cleanup company promptly is essential because time is critical when restoring a fire damaged home or building. The longer the delay, the worse the fire damage can become.

The PuroClean professionals are all highly trained and have the requisite expertise and knowledge to perform fire and smoke damage restoration services correctly. The fire damage restoration services they provide include: smoke odor removal and professional deodorization, emergency cleaning and sanitation, pack-outs and contents cleaning, temporary protection/ board-up, carpet and pad removal, and puff-back cleaning.

The fire damage restoration process consists of a number of steps. The first step is to evaluate the degree of smoke, fire and soot damage. They will also examine the damage caused by the water used to put out the fire. The second step is to handle the various contents of the property and either discard or restore them. The third step is to protect the property. Since the walls, windows, and roofs are likely to be damaged, they will protect the property from intruders by providing roof-trap and board-up services. The fourth step is to remove the excess water and dry the property. The fifth step is to get rid of the smoke and soot residue. The sixth step is to clean the remaining debris, dust, and smoke and soot residue from the surfaces and various items, and then sanitize the property. The seventh and last step is property reconstruction.
