January 11, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Avasia, a business in Beaverton, OR, is proud to announce the relaunch of their website to showcase their Prenatal brand products. Aside from providing details on the various products, the site also offers reviews of books on pregnancy, childbirth and baby care. Additionally, they will soon include blog postings to their site. Meanwhile, anyone who subscribes to the new website at www.avasia.com will automatically receive a 10% discount voucher on their next purchase. Subscribers will be kept up to date with new products and developments.

"I absolutely love the new look of our website," says Natasha Avasia, founder of the Avasia company. "I can only hope our clients appreciate it as much as what we do, because so much hard work and dedication have gone into building it. But considering the exponential growth of our subscribers list since relaunching the site, I think it is safe to say that it was a great success."

Avasia uses the tagline 'devoted to life' as it is their goal is to provide mothers and expectant mothers with advice, information and products to enhance their own life and that of their babies. The Avasia family itself regularly releases products that are designed to provide prenatal support to mothers during those precious nine months of their life.

As can be seen on <http://www.amztk.com/avasiaprenatal>, their prenatal vitamin with folic acid product has been very positively reviewed. "Bought these as my partner and I are hoping to start a family shortly," says Marissa C. "I read how important it was even before getting pregnant to take a prenatal vitamin with a good dose of folic acid and so I did some research. These Avasia Prenatals have 800mcg, twice what is recommended. I'm not very good at remembering when to take my tablets, so I was looking for something I could take once a day to cut down the risk of forgetting. I was a bit concerned because for some of the other products it said to take 2-3 per day so I was worried that these would be like horse tablets but actually they are smaller than I anticipated, and although I hate taking tablets, these go down easily and haven't made me feel sick or given me any unpleasant side effects."

The company is also asking people to follow them on Twitter through <https://twitter.com/AvasiaPrenatal> to be kept up to date with future developments.
