

Revise, Inc. Unveils Hidden Savings from Massachusetts Energy Audits

October 06, 2023

BEDFORD, MA - October 06, 2023 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Revise, Inc., a leading provider of home energy efficiency solutions, is helping homeowners in Massachusetts uncover significant savings through its comprehensive home energy audit program. With the aim of demystifying the complex landscape of home energy savings, Revise, Inc. offers Massachusetts residents a clear path to reducing home energy expenses while contributing to a greener future.

Homeowners often find themselves navigating a sea of confusing terms, including Mass Save® home audit, home energy audit, and residential energy audit, among others. The multitude of offerings from various government sources and private companies can create unnecessary confusion and prevent individuals from realizing the full potential of home energy savings.

Revise, Inc. simplifies the process by starting with a Mass Save® home energy audit, which serves as the gateway to uncovering hidden savings. The no-cost Massachusetts home energy audit, offered in collaboration with the state government's Mass Save® program, provides homeowners with valuable insights into their home's energy consumption and offers recommendations to reduce energy expenses.

At the heart of the audit is a three-part process that evaluates the home's energy efficiency:

Inspection: Revise, Inc.'s expert auditors thoroughly examine insulation, windows, doors, and appliances to identify areas where a home's energy loss occurs. This assessment helps homeowners understand potential heat or cool air leaks, inadequate insulation, or outdated appliances.

Testing: Advanced testing techniques, including blower door tests and heat loss tests using infrared cameras, are employed to pinpoint specific sources of a home's energy loss. These tests enable Revise, Inc. to provide homeowners with precise recommendations for enhancing home energy efficiency.

Efficiency Recommendations: Based on the comprehensive evaluation, Revise, Inc. presents homeowners with a detailed report highlighting cost-saving opportunities. These recommendations include updates, discounted purchases, and rebates, empowering homeowners to make informed decisions regarding home energy-saving measures.

Revise, Inc. utilizes cutting-edge infrared cameras during the thermal imaging test, which can identify home energy loss in walls, floors, and ceilings, even in insulated areas.

The efficiency analysis conducted during the Massachusetts home energy audit ensures that homeowners can save on oil, natural gas, and electric expenses. Revise, Inc.'s auditors thoroughly review utility expenses and provide personalized suggestions tailored to each homeowner's energy usage patterns. This analysis covers heating and cooling systems, as well as appliances, to maximize savings.

Through the Mass Save® program, Revise, Inc. is proud to be a designated contractor authorized to conduct home energy audits. The company's commitment to helping homeowners achieve energy efficiency and significant cost savings has resulted in numerous success stories. With a team of highly trained home energy assessors, Revise, Inc. makes the process seamless and educational. Their experts guide homeowners through every step, ensuring a clear understanding of the assessment and the potential for substantial savings.
