Jim Reidy Provides Professional Alcohol & Drug Intervention at Pennsylvania Recovery Center

October 10, 2023

Schuylkill Township, Pennsylvania - October 10, 2023 -
Pennsylvania Recovery Center, which is based in Phoenixville, PA, is pleased to announce they have partnered with professional drug and alcohol interventionist Jim Reidy, who was featured in the A&E hit television show, ?Intervention.? He is the founder of Intervention 365, which is an intervention services provider in Philadelphia and throughout the country. With his partnership with the recovery center, Jim Reidy will be flying all over the US, including Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Delaware, Maryland, and more, to offer intervention services.

Jim Reidy?s decision to become an interventionist was significantly influenced by his father?s struggle with alcohol addiction. He had a violent and turbulent upbringing as a result of his father undergoing a Jekyll and Hyde transformation whenever he drank alcohol. He himself had experienced getting trapped in an addiction and as he started his journey towards recovery, he realized that he could make a vital impact on people?s lives by helping them break free from their addiction.

It was during his recovery journey that he got in touch with a Certified Intervention Professional (CIP), who brought him into the world of intervention. He embraced his new role as an interventionist with passion. He noted that that the more interventions he conducted, the more he grew to love his work.

Jim Reidy offers compassionate and effective drug and alcohol intervention services. Thus, those who have loved ones who are struggling with alcohol misuse can contact Jim Reidy or the Pennsylvania Recovery Center. Jim Reidy says, ?An alcohol intervention is a tough process but necessary as your loved one is slowly poisoning themselves with beer and liquor. Our job is to coach the family through intervention education and then get the struggling addict or alcoholic to agree to get help. Once they agree we are the sober escort to detox and rehab. Professional interventionists are the best way to get your loved one help.?

The major aspects of Jim Reidy?s drug or alcohol intervention services include: a comprehensive assessment, a family-centered approach, professional guidance, building of awareness, and consideration of various suitable treatment alternatives, such as detox, therapy, rehab, or support groups.

There are a number of reasons why people may want to choose Jim Reidy and his team as interventionists. First of all, they have the expertise and experience with regards to addiction recovery. Second, they approach each intervention with a deep sense of compassion and empathy. They fully understand the various complexities of addiction and are committed to providing guidance for those who have started their journey towards recovery.

Third, they don?t believe in a one-size-fits-all strategy when providing an intervention. They offer a tailor-fitted intervention strategy that is based on the specific needs of the individual and their family. Fourth, they always make sure to respect the privacy of their clients. Thus, their services are provided with the utmost discretion. They offer a safe space for executives, high-profile professionals, and their families, ensuring sensitive information are kept confidential.

Finally, they have a long track record of providing positive outcomes. They have already seen with their own eyes countless success stories where their interventionists have played a vital role in helping their clients escape from the trap of an addiction.

Established in 2019, Pennsylvania Recovery Center offers intensive outpatient rehab drug treatment & outpatient services for people suffering from substance use disorder, and alcohol use disorder, including co-occurring mental health problems. Their vision is to get everyone who is struggling with a drug or alcohol addiction will be able to successfully attain addiction recovery and a new way of life. They will provide the various necessary resources and tools to assist each client in their care to recover. Pennsylvania Recovery Center founder Brandt Norton graduated with a BS in Political Science degree but realized that helping people was more suited to this personality. He has served in a number of positions in addiction treatment facilities.
