Saratoga, FL - Christmas is a time of year that is tailor made for children to have fun and get a break from school. Children tend to love getting gifts and hope for a chance to have fun with their friends. Simply Clever Cards have provided multiplication flash cards that are suitable for this purpose. They are currently available on Amazon with a variety of special offers and promotions to brighten any child's holiday season. The company has claimed the flash cards will entice children to learn common core concepts of mathematics when used.

For the Christmas, the customer can save $15.03 from the list price when they purchase a set of multiplication flash cards. The adjusted price is equivalent to a discount of 50%. This amounts to massive savings for online shoppers during the holiday season. Additionally if purchasers pay for items more than $35 then they are afforded free shipping. That means they receive free shipping if three or more packs of multiplication flash cards are bought.

The online customer can also afford discounts if the multiplication flash cards are purchased in bulk. Purchasers may wish to buy one set for their family, one for the child's school in January and another as gifts for loved ones.

If customers buy two packs of multiplication flash cards they can save an additional 5% on the half price discount when they enter the promotional code SCC02G05. Customers who buy three flash cards can save an additional 6% when they utilize the promotional code SCC03G06. These discounts were specially created for the holiday season. According to the company buying between two and six packs of multiplication flash cards will allow the customer to access additional savings between 5% and 9%.

Since the multiplication flash cards are sold on Amazon the customer can receive yet another discount once they acquire an Amazon.com Store Card. When the customer gets approval for a card they save $10.00 instantly off the price of the product.

The multiplication flash cards are advertised to work well with children aged 7 years and over. Several customers have reported that their kids aged 4-6 have also successfully used the cards for fun games. In other words, these flash cards from Simply Clever Cards can provide much fun for children in the kindergarten to primary school age groups. The multiplication flash cards provide an engaging game play while children learn arithmetic. Children can play games such as Crazy Eights, Old Maid, Go Fish, Memory, War and UNO. The company says that the games are sure to brighten their holiday season and provide colorful moments.

The company also says that customers can order in confidence, as the multiplication flash cards are sold with a 30-day money back guarantee.
