Timber fences may not only provide a safe and private boundary with a satisfying style but they can also last for a long time as long as they have been installed by the right fence contractor.

A spokesperson for Real Fencing says, ?When it comes to putting up a beautiful wood/timber fence, you need a fence contractor who will get the job done right the first time. Electing to hire the cheapest option might actually cost you more money in the long-run. From proper building code to boundary laws, you need a fence contractor who is capable of laser precision and excellent results.?

Timber fencing has always been a popular choice of homeowners and other property owners who want to protect their property while also enhancing its curb appeal. The timber fence offers an additional layer of security while also providing a stylish visual element that complements the landscape and architecture of the property.

Timber fencing offers a number of advantages. First of all, it is fast and easy to install and it can also be customised to the property owner?s specifications. Repairs will also be swift and easy because they will only require the replacement of broken or damaged fence panels, instead of having to remove the entire fence. Thus, property owners need not have to worry about high costs of materials and labour and long downtimes.

Second, timber fences are more cost-effective when compared to steel fences. This is because even if they have to be custom designed, timber fences will still have a much lower cost compared to steel fences. Furthermore, the repair of the timber fences will be less expensive because parts can easily be replaced instead of replacing the whole fence.

Third, timber fences have a natural beauty that can easily blend in with the environment. In addition, the property owner can easily opt for a style and design that matches the current architecture and landscaping of the home or building. This implies that the property owner will not have to worry about clashing colours or designs. For instance, picket fences are typical choices for classic homes while hurdle timber fences are suitable for those who want a rustic look.

Fourth, timber fences offer an environmentally sustainable type of fence. Unlike other kinds of fences, any damaged part of the timber fencing that has to be replaced will not be wasted because it can be used as firewood or for other applications. This means that timber fencing has minimal impact on the environment because of the use of sustainable materials.

Fifth, timber fences offer an important layer of security for the property from possible theft or break-ins and from the entry of animals. It will also offer an extra level of privacy because people will not be able to peer inside. Typically, tall and professionally built timber fencing is preferred for the home for maximum security and privacy.

Meanwhile, aside from timber fencing, Real Fencing can also provide other fencing services. These include aluminum fencing, garden fencing, hidden dog fences, pool fencing, fence repairs, fence painting, and temp fence hire.
