AUSTIN, TX - October 24, 2023 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

360Connect LLC is highlighting the many ways in which AI has the potential to drive innovative lead generation and B2B sales strategies in the storage container industry.

In the last few years, AI has entered and revolutionized several industries. According to Forbes, over 60% of business owners believe that AI will increase employee productivity in their ventures. In terms of real-world implementations, Salesforce says that 1 in 4 sales teams already use AI on a daily basis.

AI has been especially impactful on marketing divisions at B2B businesses who are leveraging its power to rapidly iterate on the sales process, forge stronger customer relationships, and deliver impressive results for their organizations. “There are many ways in which AI can be put to good use for B2B marketing,” says the spokesperson for 360Connect LLC. “Email marketing campaigns are one of the key applications. Using AI, email campaigns can be personalized to increase their effectiveness. Whether you are using AI to craft curated messages that deliver a personal touch or on-the-fly responses that give accurate status updates, AI can be one of the most potent tools in a salesperson's arsenal.

For example, one of the most effective uses of AI is using it to craft email subject lines that catch the buyers' attention and improve email open rates. Currently, 69% of email recipients determine an email to be spam from just the subject line. So, with the right subject lines, marketers can increase the open rate of their cold email campaigns and lock in more leads that convert.

AI can also be used to capture the tone and voice of a brand and craft custom responses in emails that are true to the company's business ethos. Paired with the right data analysis tools, AI can also help marketers understand which content leads to more conversions and then allow them to optimize the content based on how it performs.

Content marketing is another frontier where AI is poised to have a significant impact, the spokesperson says. Keyword and topic research is supercharged by AI models that have been trained on vast amounts of data and can identify relevant keywords and trending topics in the industry of choice. Content generation time is cut by orders of magnitude. Finally, content can be optimized to make it more appealing and capture the attention of potential buyers.

The storage container industry is one of the prime candidates for disruption by the latest AI tools. Shipping containers are used for just about anything in the business world. AI-powered marketing strategies make it easier for companies operating in the industry to find potential leads that they wouldn't have otherwise reached.
