HolyMess Repairs, a company based in Reservoir, Victoria, Australia, is offering various services for home emergencies, including roof repairs for home and buildings in Melbourne and surrounding areas. The company can provide emergency roof repair, roof replacement, roof restoration, roof repair, and roof report. Storms may cause structural roof damage and cause leaks, which is why emergency roof repairs are provided to prevent further property damage. An emergency roof tarp may be provided as a short-term solution. For a longer-term solution, shrink wrapping may be provided.

They will help the client choose the best repair alternative depending on the type of roof. A thermoplastic polyolefin (TPO) membrane may be used to temporarily solve the leaks for a flat roof. The team from HolyMess Repairs will make sure all roof leaks will be stopped. They want to point out that the usual situations that would require emergency repair services include when the: roof building is devastated after a hurricane; roof membrane is torn off by strong winds; shingle gable roof is torn off by the wind; and roof membrane is folded over by the wind.

They also want to point out that they are offering a free roof inspection to check if there are any roof leaks after a storm. As a roofing contractor in Melbourne, they also provide periodic roof reports. Varun Chandra, founding director at HolyMess Repairs, says, "The purpose of a roof report is to reduce any damage. It is good to inspect at least a year; however, many people consider inspecting twice a year. Creating an inspection checklist would be great to find an accumulation of dirt/debris, water stains, mould, etc. on any date. This information will be helpful in understanding the cleanliness and structural soundness. It also lets you identify surface deterioration."

The roof inspection will consist of various parts: material inspection, interior inspection, structural inspection, and workmanship inspection. They will check for any loose or missing shingles and then inspect for any indications of rust or stain on the material. Their inspection team will also examine the interior to identify any leaks to avoid damage to the ceilings, interior walls, and attic. They will also examine structures to see if there are any signs of sagging and also the condition of the gutter system to find out if they will have any negative effects on the lifespan of the roof. Lastly, they will inspect the workmanship that was provided for the previous installation and will find out if there is any faulty shingle placement or flashing installation to prevent any risk of damage.

The team from HolyMess Repairs can also provide roof restoration services, which will bring back the functionality and appearance of an existing roof. This will require mending of damaged parts, resealing or painting, and applying protective coatings. A roof restoration may increase the energy efficiency and longevity of the roof. A roof restoration can provide a cost-effective alternative for solving issues, such as leaks and cracked or broken shingles.

HolyMess Repairs can also provide a roof replacement service. They provide clients with premium assistance that includes a comprehensive method for roof replacement. They will allow clients to avoid the stress that come with factory roof replacement projects. For commercial roof replacement projects, they will ensure that the business will continue to be open throughout the roof replacement process.

Founded in 2023, HolyMess Repairs is made up of a team of experienced trade professionals providing all kinds of repair services to customers such as roofing, tiling, plumbing, renovation, and electrical services in Melbourne and nearby areas.
