EAGAN, MN - November 06, 2023 -
Amundson Law Office, a firm based in Eagan, MN, takes pride in Attorney Lisa Amundson being recognized as a top child support attorney serving St Paul Minnesota and its suburbs, with the bulk of her practice focused on the suburban Dakota County area. She lives in Dakota County and it appears that clients are happy that she is a local. Her firm has offices in Eagan and has handled various cases throughout the Minneapolis St Paul metropolitan area. She has been certified as a Guardian ad Litem for the State of Minnesota in Dakota County and as a Child Support Magistrate in the State of Minnesota. She is a member of the Minnesota State Bar Association, Dakota County Bar Association, Hennepin County Bar Association, including the Family Law section.

Lisa Amundson says, ?Child support is one of the key issues involved in divorce cases. Spousal maintenance and child support, in some cases, can be ?reserved?. That simply means that to keep the divorce proceeding moving forward, any maintenance schedule is not dealt with until a later time and date. It usually requires additional legal support. If you are being presented with a proposed settlement where support will be reserved, make sure you check with an experienced family law attorney to ensure that is the best thing for your situation. If you are facing a child support or spousal maintenance issue and need help, take advantage of our free initial consultation by contacting one of our offices.?

In addition to child support, Lisa Amundson can also help with child custody and parenting time/ visitation issues. Such issues are generally the most emotionally charged and complex problems that have to be worked out in a family law case. It is important to note that Minnesota law mandates that custody issues need to be resolved in such a way that represents the best interests of the child. Lisa Amundson says, ?I handle custody cases under all circumstances, whether you are working through a divorce, are pursuing a modification to a previous custody agreement, or have children but were never married, I can help.?

It is quite common for divorcing parents to be in a disagreement with regards to child custody or visitation. However, it is essential for both parties to understand that such arguments can have a negative impact on the child and will not result into a situation that will offer the best resolution for the child. Child custody is based on Section 518.17 of the 2015 Minnesota Statutes.

Divorce lawyer Lisa Amundson can also offer help with domestic violence issues in the Twin Cities metro area. While divorce and family law issues are usually significantly affected by emotions and are quite complex, the situation is even more difficult when it involves domestic violence. For the spouse suffering from domestic violence, getting the necessary help may be intimidating or embarrassing, and there may even be the fear of further abuse.

She says, ?I have in-depth experience when it comes to family law issues where domestic violence was a factor. If you need help working through a divorce or child custody issue, do not hesitate to call and arrange your free initial consultation. And for those who have been charged with abusing your spouse, do not take the allegation lightly. Secure legal counsel as soon as possible to minimize how the situation will affect your life going forward. We can help you deal with the accusations.?
