Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. - Augusta, GA, is reaching out to car accident victims who may be unsure whether they are able to pursue compensation. There are many reasons why an individual may hesitate to take legal action, and the firm is keen to help the community settle their concerns.

On one hand, those who have been in minor accidents may believe that there is little point in seeking compensation. While this may indeed be the case, the firm cautions everyone against coming to this conclusion too swiftly as there may be other factors at play that will only make themselves known later on.

For instance, drivers may expect the relevant insurance company to pay for the damage to their vehicle, requiring no further action on their part. However, depending on the scale of the wreck, an insurer may contest the details of the accident or crash in order to deny the car owner the compensation they are due. On the other hand, a small accident can still cause bodily harm that manifests some time after the incident in question. Whiplash is an excellent example of this, and most will prefer to have help paying the associated medical expenses once they seek treatment, even if that treatment is required days or weeks later.

At the other end of the spectrum, Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. says some car accident victims may even consider themselves too incapable to seek compensation, possibly due to the extent of their injuries. They may believe that the time and energy required to go to court and so on are beyond their capability, but this need not be true. With the right attorney?s help, they need not do anything other than focus on their recovery.

In fact, this is exactly what the team at Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. specializes in. Clients who choose to work with Attorney Ken Nugent and his team are afforded the opportunity to continue their lives while the firm pursues a case on their behalf. The firm will gather evidence, consult with experts, negotiate with relevant parties and much more to give a case as high a chance as possible of having a positive outcome. The client will be kept apprised of the progress of their case, but they will otherwise not have to be involved any more than they wish.

?Some will ask why they should put themselves through more trouble in the aftermath of a wreck,? notes the Augusta car accident lawyer. ?They may feel that they need to focus on themselves, keep in touch with their doctor, follow up on their vehicle?s repairs and so on. We agree! If you are involved with an accident and the other party is at fault, Georgia law allows for you to hold them financially responsible, but you do not have to undertake this path alone. We are your attorneys, and we can do it for you.?

At the very least, it is advisable for car accident victims (or their representatives, such as family members) to seek a consultation with an attorney who has experience in the field. Many, Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. included, offer a free initial consultation to clients that enables them to consider all their options and determine whether their case has merit. Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. also goes the extra mile by dispatching attorneys to clients in the event they are unable to meet at the firm?s Augusta office.

Notes from former clients also serve to illustrate why this firm is right for Augusta car accident victims. An excerpt from a review says, ?Marcus and Courtney were so nice to me and kept me informed of everything! And the best part was I didn't have to wait almost three years for my settlement! I was in an accident years before, and that attorney (whom I won't name) took forever and a day for my settlement. It went on for so long that I just settled for that low amount offered because I just wanted it to be over.?

The review concludes, ?It only took Marcus a few short months, and I got way more than expected! If I'm ever in another accident again, I will surely call them! You won't regret it! Thanks again!?

Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. - Augusta can be reached fastest over the phone, but clients are welcome to stop by the firm?s premises to request a consultation. The firm is also active on social media.
