Eisner Laser Center is pleased to announce the addition of a Trifecta Red Light Therapy fat loss bed to their Macon, GA practice. Led by Dr. Richard Eisner, considered by many to be the region's authority in laser vision therapy, Eisner Laser Center is delighted to share that other forms of light-based therapy are now available as well.

Eisner Laser Center has a reputation for seeking innovation at every opportunity, driven by Dr. Eisner's belief that their community deserves nothing but the best. This has led him to expand the clinic's offerings and explore the benefits of red light therapy.

According to the clinic, red light has the potential to promote a number of beneficial effects in the body, including increased cellular activity and mitochondrial function, which in turn propel the body's own fat-loss mechanics. Notably, this form of red light therapy comes with several bonus effects that many will be happy to take advantage of alongside their weight loss, such as better skin, superior muscle recovery and even relief from joint pain.

Dr. Eisner has always made it his mission to take a holistic approach to every client's eye care needs, and he considers the addition of the Trifecta Red Light Therapy fat loss bed an extension of this goal. While unconventional, he hopes his decision will soon be duplicated by other members of the medical community.

Many clients are already familiar with Dr. Eisner's work, given the doctor has seen countless clients for LASIK. His expertise in the field is unmatched, and he is keen to offer the same expertise and professional guidance to members of the community who are struggling with their weight. Clients who keep track of their wellness will want to know how safe Red Light Therapy is, and Dr. Eisner heartily encourages them to do their own research. Should they have any questions regarding its potential impact on their own body, he and his team will be happy to provide the answers.

He assures the community that he considered every possibility before deciding to offer red light therapy as part of the clinic's services, and he has thoroughly vetted the technology to ensure it is safe to use. In fact, he makes the case that the Trifecta Light Therapy Program is preferable in many situations since it offers a relaxing, non-invasive treatment for clients who wish to reach an ideal weight or even resolve certain skin issues. It is also completely painless, so clients need not be concerned about enduring any discomfort on this part of their weight loss journey.

Those who find themselves curious about the overall client experience at Eisner Laser Center need only look up testimonials from former clients to settle any outstanding concerns. As one client shares, "Love my miracle eyes! This was the best decision I ever made! After several family members and friends had recommended it, I finally committed to improving my own vision. Of course, it was scary and seemed like a lot of money, but after figuring the cost of glasses and contacts, and all the annual eye appointments and additional products I'd spent for 20 years, this was a bargain!"

The review goes on to explain that, "Dr. Eisner and his staff are so supportive and encouraging. The atmosphere of his office is relaxing and non-intimidating. The surgery took less than one minute per eye for me, and the recovery period less than two days for my PRK procedure. Totally worth it! I can now see my family's faces clearly when I wake up in the morning! I've recommended Dr. Eisner to many others who've also had similar success stories."

The clinic encourages everyone to get in touch if they are interested in pursuing their weight loss goals with a doctor who already has a reputation for being the region's top LASIK specialist. Consultations may be scheduled over the phone or through the clinic's official website. All are encouraged to ask as many questions as they like about the therapy before they proceed.
