November 16, 2023 -
GA based Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. - Augusta is reaching out to the local community to share information about the range of medical malpractice services they provide. Over the many years they have been active, the law offices of Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. have established themselves as one of the most trusted and reliable options when it comes to personal injury cases in Georgia.

The National Center for Biotechnology Information defines medical malpractice as any act or omission by a physician during the treatment of a patient that deviates from accepted standards of practice in the medical profession and results in harm to the patient. Medical malpractice can occur when negligence to provide appropriate treatment, the lack of appropriate action, or the provision of substandard treatment causes harm, injury, or death to a person. What is important for Augusta residents to know is that, thanks to laws regulating the healthcare industry, patients can recover compensation for any harm that resulted from substandard treatment.

Chris Dietz from Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. says, ?Both in Atlanta and across the country, doctors owe their patients a certain duty of care. The patients? health and well-being should always be the top priority for doctors, but there have sadly been a number of instances where doctors didn?t take their responsibilities seriously. This may be due to inexperience, exhaustion, a desire for personal gain, just plain negligence, and so on. When this contributes to a patient?s substandard care, it may be considered grounds for a medical malpractice suit.?

Any Augusta resident who has found themselves hurt or injured as a result of the carelessness, reckless behavior, or incompetence of a medical professional may pursue a medical malpractice lawsuit to recover damages for their losses. Every medical malpractice lawyer at Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. has years of experience and expertise in handling all types of medical malpractice claims, including those involving surgical errors and major misdiagnoses. The law firm has handled thousands of medical negligence complaints and ensured that the patients affected have earned their due compensation.

If a medical malpractice lawsuit is followed through, affected parties might be entitled to financial compensation for various types of damages, including but not limited to any medical expenses (both past and future, as well as rehabilitation costs), lost wages and compensation for lower earning potential, pain and suffering, with punitive damages on top. This compensation can greatly improve the quality of life of someone who has been the victim of medical malpractice, so it is very important that anyone who thinks they have been victim to medical practice reach out to a qualified lawyer.

The law offices of Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. have earned great praise from their clients for their top-notch legal services. In a review, C. Smith writes, ?Ken?s office and team helped me get more than I?d have ever hoped getting back from my motorcycle accident. I filed a claim, and within days they were on the ball, committed, exceptionally communicative. I was stressed at first, but after speaking to his team, I felt reassured that I wasn?t powerless. Thank you, Kenneth Nugent and your colleagues.?

In another review, D. Lucas writes, ?In Augusta, Georgia, attorney Michael G. Orr was widely regarded as the top auto accident lawyer. I chose to employ him to handle my case because of this. By fulfilling all of his promises, Mr. Orr helped uphold his reputation. He fought for me in the background to get my health and financial losses restored. When I had questions about different aspects of my case, he spent the time thoroughly explaining my options and possible results. This contributed to the development of trust, which is crucial when choosing a lawyer, as I later realized.?
