December 21, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Entrepreneur and internet marketer Nancy Macias has announced a diversity of training courses that are designed to educate marketers in the fields of list building, product creation and sales funnels. Through marketingwithnancymacias.com, Macias is providing training to internet marketers.

"My courses assist marketers in learning how to maximize their efforts in each of these categories, which will ultimately help them to increase their success rate in the application of the training materials," states Macias. One of the programs, Champion List Builder, shows marketers how to effectively send out email programs, and breaks down the list of tasks by how much time each will take every day.

"It's easy to say 'you should do this or that', but some people really need detailed instruction," Macias states. "I feel that it is much better to offer insights that give specific examples, which readers can in turn use to their advantage to help them conquer the internet marketing world."

Another program included in the training is Sales Funnel Secrets, which teaches marketers how to build an effective list. It details step by step how to begin building a list, and shows marketers how they can break even while they are doing so.

Macias also offers Turbo Product Creation, which teaches how to create a profitable information product in just a few days. This is a seven part video series that shows marketers how to develop products that will help them to make money.

Macias states that all of the programs together are designed to help marketers get their business off their ground, and that they are offered at a bargain. She says that her goal is to assist newbies in the industry in getting their marketing business started, and she offers a number of tips and articles on her website that are designed to assist as well.

More about Nancy Macias can be seen on her official website, where she outlines various marketing topics and offers tips and advice for those new to the industry. Those interested can read more on her site, including information about the marketing training that she is currently offering.
